I'M AFTER THEM! I'M AFTER THEM!

Look out for the sleek tongued varments that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. Those that tell you falsehoods are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do more and better work than any other machine in the market, and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years and have given parties to understand they would give differences, but were told that the ADVANCE, after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines if they were new. And if the ADVANCE engine is not the best traction engine, why is it that I have sold TWELVE on the West Side between Portland and Corvallis, this year?

THE CITY OF ASHES.

Desolation Has Taken the Place of Industry.

ABOUT THIRTY BLOCKS ARE GONE

The Loss Will Not Be Far From Ten Millions

THE ESTIMATES ARE CONFLICTING

A Partial List of the Financial Sufferers—One Life Was Lost and [illegible] Others

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Aug. 4.—The entire business [illegible] was [illegible] last night. [illegible] blocks were burned to ashes. [illegible] loss is $14,000,000. The fire [illegible] in a house on Railroad avenue. The fire department was on the scene quickly but owing to lack of water the fire quickly spread to an adjoining frame building, and was soon beyond control.

Flames jumped across the street to the Russ [illegible] and Pacific hotel. By this time a strong wind had sprung up and it was evident the city was doomed. The fire spread with fearful rapidity and the firemen were powerless. Attempts were made to check the fire by blowing up buildings in its path but they were useless.

From the Pacific hotel the fire jumped across First street to the frame buildings in the next block. Soon it reached the heart of the city. All of the [illegible] brick buildings on Riverside avenue went.

From [illegible] the fire communicated to the magnificent [illegible] block, Kaufman's building, taking in the [illegible] between Mill and Howard street on Riverside.

It then leaped across Howard and in a few minutes the block between Howard and Stevens was reduced to ashes.

The next to succumb was the large Tull block of four-story bricks, including the post office, between Stevens and Washington. Here the fire burned out from lack of material.

From the point of beginning the fire took another direction, leaping across Sprague street to the Opera House block. From its flames it jumped across Riverside avenue to Brown's bank. Then both sides of the avenue were in flames.

The block between Post and Mill was quickly licked up, including the Grand hotel. From here fire was communicated to the adjoining block on the right. Here was the Frankfort block, the largest building in the city, which cost $250,000. It withstood the fire for some time but finally succumbed.

The Arlington hotel was next to go. The building was enveloped in flames when a man was seen to [illegible] from the second story. He rose and started [illegible] when he was overcome by heat and fell. Several people rushed to his aid [illegible]. He was a pitiful sight, being literally roasted, his skin peeling off all over his body. His name is Charles Davis, of Billings, Mont. He died in an hour.

From the Arlington the fire traveled north and returned to the block between Howard, [illegible] and Stevens, burning east as far as the latter street, where a vacant lot checked further progress in that direction.

Everything in a northerly direction including the Northern Pacific Express [illegible] block and [illegible] hotel was soon in flames. The river prevented the fire doing further damage and was the means of saving the [illegible] mills.

By the [illegible] short space of three hours the fire had consumed everything in its path, reducing to ashes the entire business portion of the once beautiful city. The only business block left standing is the Crescent building which was saved by tearing down intervening buildings.

BOUNDS OF THE FIRE.

The fire extended from Railroad avenue, running east and west parallel with the railroad tracks, northward to the river, crossing First street, Sprague street, Riverside avenue, Main street and Front street, and from Lincoln street eastward to Washington street, crossing Post street, Mill street, Howard street and Stevens street. [illegible] blocks were burned besides the freight and passenger depots and cars on the south side of Railroad avenue.

Owing to the rapidity with which the fire spread [illegible] provisions [illegible] will last only a short time. The [illegible] this morning [illegible] provisions will be sent for [illegible].

The city superintendent of the water works was [illegible] for not getting [illegible] being away at the time of the fire. [illegible] at the time of the fire there was [illegible] sure that there [illegible] the fire would have been easily gotten under control.

[illegible] force and all persons will not pass [illegible]. Six out of the seven banks are doing business in the Crescent block. Everybody bears his loss bravely. Many business men already are figuring their future [illegible] to rebuild.

THE CONFLAGRATION'S WORK

A Brief Statement of the Buildings That Were Burned.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Aug. 5.—The city presents a desolate aspect to-day. Thirty blocks in the business center, including many magnificent structures of brick and granite, are now a mass of smouldering ruins. The loss is estimated at not less than $10,000,000, with insurance of about $[illegible],000,000.

After clearing up the block of frame buildings in which the fire originated it swept across Howard street eastward, taking everything from the railroad north, including a plumbing shop, restaurant, the Elite and two other saloons and a furniture house, the Red Front grocery, owned by J. C. Davis, and the grocery store of A. J. Shirley.

East of the establishment named between First street and the railroad the progress of the fire was stopped through the efforts of the firemen, aided greatly by the substantial brick walls of some massive buildings in course of construction.

The Home bakery, northeast corner of First and Howard, Hill & Foster's grocery, the handsome dry goods house of L. Brockhausen, a saloon, meat market and the second hand store of J. F. [illegible] on the southeast corner of Howard and Sprague, the Odd Fellows' lodge room on the northeast corner, the [illegible] of Spokane restaurant, a bakery, the Queen City chop house and the Spokane National bank, corner of Howard street and Riverside avenue, were all soon involved in the general destruction.

East on Riverside avenue the flames swept on devouring the I X L clothing store, then a grocery store, [illegible] & Co.'s real estate office, Harry Gordon's Reception saloon, Mike Quinlan's saloon, the [illegible] shooting gallery, two fruit stores, one of them owned by Joe Gribler, Denny & Fowler's real estate office, and J. Stearns's cigar store. The [illegible] loss is estimated at $2,500, on which he had insurance of $800. Also a restaurant and cigar store at the corner of Stevens and Riverside.

From the Sprague street building, swept clean as far as Stevens, including on the south side a tin shop, Mrs. [illegible]'s boarding house, Marion's sash and door office, the terra cotta works office of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, and on the north side, Hugh's [illegible] market, [illegible] employment offices, Scott's barber shop, Carey's undertaking house, a dwelling house and a grocery store on the northeast corner of Sprague and Stevens.

North on Stevens street—on the west side two real estate offices, [illegible] employment office.

Only southeast corner of Sprague and Stevens the flames spent their fury in that direction on a dwelling house but raged on northward, engulfing the Citizens National Bank, the entire Tull block and the magnificent block east of it on Riverside avenue, wiping out the postoffice and J. Kellner's block, involving an estimated loss of $30,000 on which there was insurance of $17,000. Wolfe's fancy store in the rear of which was the Globe printing office, Anklenbaugh's notion store and Jackson's second hand establishment occupying two fronts and four stories high.

Adjoining the postoffice on the east, a large block is in process of erection and the heavy brick walls of the new building with good work by the firemen prevented further progress to the east.

Over the entire area described nothing was left but a mass of ruins.

THE FLAMES SWEEP ON

There Was But One Barrier and That Was Vacancy.

The flames in their mad fury leaped across Howard street, igniting the Ziegler block, and almost simultaneously a burning timber flying across Riverside avenue landed in the ruins of the recent fire in the rear of the Ziegler block, and in a very short time the entire block was a victim to the devastating flames.

From the Ziegler block, occupied by the Chicago Clothing Company, the fire communicated rapidly to the buildings adjoining.

In its mad course down Howard street it wiped out and laid in ashes the drug store of Pelton & Co., Wilson's cigar store, Hess & Pierce's dry goods and clothing store, [illegible] barber shop, Simmons's [illegible], the [illegible] saloon, Bloomer & Lang's wholesale liquor store, the immense double two-story dry goods store of Tokias & Co., known as the Great Eastern Company, E. J. Burns's fruit store, the Club saloon and Epperson's shoe store, winding up that side of the block as far as Maine street by sweeping out E. Dennessy's clothing store.

The wind increasing in velocity swept the flames across Main street into the Arlington block and into the frame buildings adjoining it on the east.

The fire with increasing force swept down Main street and continued on down Howard street, taking everything before it on Howard.

Before the Arlington was finished the demon got to work on Duncan & Connelly's cigar store, thence in order came Henessy's tailoring establishment, the Coon saloon conducted by S. Hyde, Hotaling & Co.'s wholesale liquor store, Skritt & Donnelly's shoe store, Charles Davis's fruit store, the Pantheon saloon conducted by E. A. Skeels & Co. and Lowenberg Bros.' immense wholesale and retail dry goods, clothing and general supply store.

The loss on the east side of Howard street ended with the destruction of the Windsor hotel.

Going down Riverside avenue from Howard street, the remains of the recent fire were speedily burned and the force of the flames blowing across Riverside commenced to play in wild delight about the Washington and the heat being too severe that beautiful structure with the magnificent block adjoining the Eagle was a victim to the unrestrained elements. Among the losses in the Washington on the lower floor were the Electric Light Company, the Phonograph Company, the Telephone Company, American District Telegraph Company, the Washington Water Power Company, and M. Seller & Co., conducting a large crockery and glassware house, and among the losers on the floor above [illegible] Bolter & Co., real estate and managers of the Farmers' Journal, Lanning & Brackett, real estate, Sloan & Howe, real estate and K. K. Cutter & Co., [illegible] and a number of others whose names are not yet learned. The Washington was owned by R. D. Sherwood.

The Eagle block below was occupied by Mrs. Chas. [illegible], proprietor of the [illegible] store, Mayor Furth, harness store.

Among the losers above were F. L. Bernard, photographer, Dr. [illegible], dentist, and Mrs. [illegible], who had the furnished rooms.

Sweeping across Main street the frame buildings were an easy prey and were soon licked up by the flames, including the Capital beer hall run by Matthew Lall and the [illegible], [illegible] Fund, proprietor. Above these saloons were a number of lodging houses.

The Bella Union theater, John Fielding proprietor, is a total wreck.

A number of frame buildings on the south side of Main street, including lunch houses, saloons and blacksmith shops, completed the loss on that side of the street.

On the north side of Main street, commencing at the Arlington, a frame building was the first to go. Following this were the Queen chop house, Turner's restaurant, the Delmonico restaurant and a corral.

The last block to go was the block south of Main street and east of Stevens, which was consumed like so much paper. The main loss in this block was the Spokane crockery factory and a saloon, besides a number of small frame buildings.

BURNED OUT.

On Front street the fierce flames darted in every direction and soon cleaned out a number of little frame buildings occupied mainly by Chinamen and disreputable women, among which was one magnificent brick structure, known as the Synagogue. In this quarter the wild and dreaded element spent its force and abated its fury simply because there was nothing more in its course that it could destroy. It had done its worst and could add no more to the disaster. This was sufficient, for it had caused a most appalling scene and one that beggars description. It had thrown thousands of men and women out of employment and more than that number out of a place to sleep. It destroyed all supplies. That may possibly cause a few days suffering, at least until provisions can be supplied from neighboring towns and cities. It brought upon Spokane the worst disaster that was ever experienced in this proud city, and leveled to the ground some of the most magnificent structures the Northwest has ever seen and some that citizens have ever pointed to with pride, and caused one of the worst conflagrations, according to population, that the world has ever known. Never has a fire consumed so many buildings and wrought so much devastation in so short a time as the one that has leveled Spokane Falls's business portion to the ground.

said he "and I was very well insured. We shall have another office right away and we will be ready for business. The blow to the city is a very heavy one, but we have with us yet the same conditions that made the city once and they will make it again. I think there may be some material changes in the position of the business district of the future owing to the accident by which the Crescent block and a few business houses were left. The banks are moving up there, and for many weeks the heart of the city must be in that immediate locality. This will have a tendency to draw the central north and south artery, which lays on Howard street farther west. Monroe street will quickly grow into great importance, not only owing to this circumstance, but because of the farther fact that the cable road will soon be in operation. It may be also that Sprague street will come into greater prominence. Riverside must of necessity also be a business street at its junction with Monroe, but Sprague has a clear opening both east and west and therefore had a better chance to capture the country trade.

"These are only suggestions as to what may happen. We had many handsome structures before the [illegible] coast, and we will have more of them [illegible] and none at all of the frame shanties. [illegible] suffer more or less by the fire, but the city will be finer than ever and [illegible] manifest destiny. If I can speak for the Washington Water Power Company I can say it will go right forward with its contemplated improvements, which as you know, will be very extensive, and cost several hundred thousand dollars. The cable road is not a sufferer by the fire and will be completed about as soon as if it had not occurred."

A CORRECTION.

The Lake Shore & Eastern Is Willing to Help the Sufferers.

When Mayor Smith called upon me to know what arrangements he could make with the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern railway for carrying sufferers from the fire to and from Medical Lake, I told him if he would arrange some plan by which I could know that such persons as might apply were really sufferers and [illegible] I would carry them free. Otherwise we would carry them for half fare. It seems when Mr Furth gave the proposition to the citizens' mass meeting he made no mention of the first proposition, thereby placing myself and the company I represent in a false position before the people. I also desire further to state that on Sunday night twelve hours before Mr Furth called upon me I stated to Captain Gus Martin of the [illegible] that we would carry sufferers to and from Medical Lake or any other point free. We will carry sufferers and freight free to and from any and all points on our line upon an order from the mayor or any other proper authority.

J. R. ALLEN, Superintendent.

THE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

A Meeting Held Last Evening to Arrange Details.

SPOKANE FALLS, Aug 5.—A meeting of the relief committee was held in the city hall last evening. Hon A M Cannon was in the chair and there were present Councilman Pettis, ex-Mayor Taylor and H I Wilson. Mr J M Brazel, who acted as assistant secretary of the relief committee after the Virginia City, Nev, fire, acted as secretary.

Mr Pettis reported that sheds are being built on the lot on the northwest corner of Washington and Main streets. A store room is being built on the same grounds, where donations from outside towns and cities will be kept.

The chairman suggested that some check should be put upon the indiscriminate feeding of people at the American Resort. He thought that some one should be stationed there to see that only those entitled should be fed.

Mr Hayward stated that he was having tickets printed which would be issued in the morning.

Mr Taylor moved that any one receiving telegrams regarding relief be requested to hand them to the relief committee.

On motion of Pettis, Taylor was chosen treasurer.

Taylor stated that he was in favor of laying all the expense of caring for the destitute upon the city, and not going to individuals for subscriptions and made a motion to that effect. Carried unanimously.

Mr Pettis suggested that orders should be signed by a sub-committee, and countersigned by Secretary Hayward.

On motion of Taylor, Alderman Cannon and Harry Wilson were appointed as finance committee, with power to sign orders.

An informal discussion followed as to the best means of guarding against fire in the future.

Taylor stated that a reservoir on the hill would be in his opinion the best safeguard the city could have. The other members of the committee appeared to concur in this opinion. It was also suggested that it would be well to prohibit the use of galvanized iron and zinc cornices on buildings.

Mr Taylor stated that he thought the people ought to be allowed to put board floors in their tents, and also to board up the sides to the height of three boards, and made a motion that the committee express themselves in favor of granting such privilege. Carried.

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock to-day.

THE LOSSES.

A List of the Sufferers So Far as Obtained.

The most difficult task the reporters encountered was the gathering of facts with reference to the losses and insurance, owing to the complete destruction of the entire district and the scattering of the former occupants, hundreds of whom could not be found. Following is a list of sufferers and amounts of losses, as far as they could be ascertained:

Arment & Palmer, loss $7000, insurance $3000.

A. A. Newberry & Co., loss $300.

Spokane Savings bank, loss $[illegible].

Additional Particulars of the Sad Occurrence—Mrs Cockburn Grief Stricken.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 5.—Additional particulars of the drowning of Archie and Joseph Cockburn and Chris Sylvester on the beach about ten miles south of this city yesterday have been obtained from the father of the Cockburn boys, who was the only witness to the sad drowning.

Cockburn stated his two boys, Sylvester, and himself, left this city before daylight, in order to arrive at the fishing grounds early in the morning. After arriving at Mussel rock, which runs some distance into the ocean, they selected one portion of it on which to eat breakfast.

"After I had finished breakfast," said Cockburn, "I walked out on the rocks about fifteen feet from where my boys were sitting, and was just about to light a cigar, when I saw a dark wall of water which seemed to be at least twenty feet high rise up before me. I shouted to the boys to run for the shore and then in an instant I was struck by the wave. I don't remember what occurred for some time after that, but when I did recover consciousness I found myself holding on by the rocks and neither of my boys nor Sylvester were in sight. I screamed for them at the top of my voice and rushed madly up and down the shore of the cave, looking for any sign of them that might be visible, but they had disappeared. Their hats, coats and fishing rods were all gone and I was left alone, not knowing what to do and becoming more and more frantic every instant. After [illegible]

THE MAYBRICK TRIAL.

Strong Testimony for the Defense—A Sensation in the Courtroom.

LIVERPOOL, Aug 5.—At the trial of Mrs Maybrick for the murder of her husband to-day, during the examination of witnesses for the defense, Dr MacNamara, ex-president of the society of surgeons, testified that in his opinion Mr Maybrick's death was due to gastritis and not to arsenic.

Dr Paul of Liverpool, toxicological examiner to Queen Victoria, declared that it would take months to eliminate the arsenic from the system if it was taken over twice. He thought the symptoms in the case of Maybrick accorded with those of gastritis gastro-enteritis.

A chemist said that he had purchased arsenic to beautify their complexion.

A hairdresser said that arsenic was frequently used by ladies to improve their complexion.

Mr P[illegible], chemist, of Liverpool, testified that in March last Mr Maybrick had told him that he took poison [illegible] times habitually.

This concluded the evidence and Mrs Maybrick then read her statement. In this she explained the presence of the fly paper in the house by saying that she had bought it for her own use. For many years she has used a preparation prescribed by Dr Greggs, of Brooklyn, which [illegible] and, wishing to make a substitute, had soaked the fly paper in elder flower water and covered it with [illegible] with a plate and a towel to exclude the air.

Continuing Mrs Maybrick said: "On the night of [illegible] my husband [illegible] and [illegible] he was very sick and [illegible] a powder [illegible] the bottle [illegible] for [illegible] very anxious [illegible] He [illegible] assured me and as I felt the powder was harmless and I could put it in his food, I consented to mix it with some meat juice, which I gave to him. After taking it deceased fell asleep and appeared better on awakening. I was not anxious [illegible]. Afterwards I placed the bottle [illegible] where [illegible] until Michael Maybrick, my brother-in-law, took possession of it. The day before my husband died I made a full confession to him of a fearful wrong I had done him and received his forgiveness."

This statement caused a sensation in the court room.

THE DEFEATED DERVISHES.

General Grenfell Telegraphs That Their Army Is Completely Demoralized.

CAIRO, Aug 5.—General Grenfell, commander of the Egyptian troops who defeated the dervishes Saturday, wires that he had made a reconnoissance and found that the battle had completely broken the dervish army. Out of a force of 3000 men which Wad El Jumi took into the battle Saturday, only a few remain. These are being pursued by the Egyptian cavalry and Colonel Woodehouse has gone to Abou Bel to head off the retreating dervishes. Every emir in the dervish army save one was killed. The bodies of several hundred dervishes and a large number of wounded, making a thousand in all, have been brought into Toski. Refugees are arriving at that town.

The Egyptian loss was seventeen killed and 130 wounded. Three British soldiers were wounded.

Sirdah has been occupied by the British and Egyptians. Two thousand of Wad El Jumi's followers submitted to-day. The troops returned to Cairo immediately.

[illegible] It would be better in his judgment [illegible] the public press and the telegraph company [illegible].

Regarding the statement that the government has the lowest rate given to any single customer [illegible] that [illegible] the [illegible] commercial [illegible] and special [illegible] words [illegible] 2 cents per word [illegible] and 1½ cents at night. [illegible] the papers in the large cities have [illegible] of 1½ cents for [illegible] and ½ of a cent [illegible] dispatches, or one half lower than the government [illegible].

[illegible] Dr Green [illegible] that the government [illegible] made still lower? [illegible] your company [illegible] has [illegible] government would [illegible] should [illegible] rates now exist and that [illegible] the people and the government should [illegible] low rates are given to [illegible].

[illegible] no money can be [illegible] the company [illegible] rates [illegible] in the [illegible] 10 cents [illegible] Western Union [illegible] statistics [illegible] 10 [illegible] but [illegible] which [illegible] the government's [illegible].

The schedule shows [illegible] that for eleven years [illegible] about three cents a word [illegible] which government [illegible] reduction [illegible] but the public rate has been reduced within that period more than [illegible] per cent. According to the Western Union statistics, the cost of handling [illegible] was reduced [illegible] during [illegible] period [illegible] all the [illegible] I believe that the government has been paying for its service more than any other [illegible] giving you a like or an approximate amount of business, and that within the [illegible] named there has not been so great a reduction in the government rates as to the general public [illegible] the press.

Waiving entirely the question of the land grants made to the telegraph companies under the act of 1866 the government ought to be put upon as favorable a basis as to telegraphic rates as your most favored customers, inasmuch as this discussion has taken a much wider range than was anticipated, it may be proper to add that you are right in saying that the acceptance of the act of 1866 by the telegraph companies rendered to all intents and purposes a contract between the government and the telegraph companies, but I do not agree with all of your next succeeding statements. For instance, the printed copy of your memorial to the senate postoffice committee last year misquotes the act of 1866, which should read: 'Provided, however, that the United States may at any time purchase all of the telegraph lines, property and effects of any or all companies acting under the provisions of the act of July 4, 1866.' The words 'any' and 'or' are omitted in your memorial. The omission was of course an error, but as your present correspondence expresses the same meaning, I mention the matter merely to remark that your views in that particular have not been adopted by this department. The act of 1866 was as you say, a compromise measure in which the United States for the time being waived its rights to perform any of the telegraphic service in conjunction with the postoffice. The first telegraph line in this country was built with government aid and that the government did not continue to exercise its undoubted prerogative by extending and operating the telegraph as a more speedy means of communication than the post, as is well known was purely an accident.

"In conclusion, I beg to remind you that in my letter of July 13, I consented to your request to a conference on the subject before any official order fixing the rate was issued. I am yet willing to entertain any reasonable proposition based on known facts."

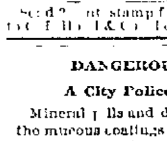
DANGEROUS PURGATIVES.

A City Policeman's Experience.

Mineral pills and drastic purgatives so irritate the mucous coatings of the stomach and bowels, that they often leave the system in worse condition than before. In fact their cathartic action is due to their irritation. The danger attending their steady use is apparent. The new laxative principle in Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla gets its cathartic action by increasing the mucous secretions and gently stimulating the stomach. It is purely vegetable, does not lose its effect, is effective and absolutely safe to be taken occasionally or continuously by the most delicate persons.



Gus Vilhan, the well known police officer of No. 1526 Howard St, San Francisco writes: "After my own experience I firmly believe that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will cure the most obstinate cases of constipation. Although cured I am still taking it, and never had my system so thoroughly regulated. By increasing or diminishing the dose one has absolute command over himself with this valuable remedy."

[illegible] NON-COMMITTAL

[illegible] the Reporter Wishes to Know Too Much.

[illegible] With the President and General [illegible] of the O. & W. T. R. R., on the [illegible] Hunt System.

[illegible] Hunt, the well known railroad man and builder of the Oregon & Washington [illegible] railroads, or what is known as [illegible] system, was seen by an OREGONIAN [illegible] at the Esmond last evening, the first [illegible] has been seen since Mr Villard [illegible] the railway situation, although he [illegible] has been in the city several [illegible] that period, but managed to elude [illegible] since he has become a railway [illegible] rather difficult to get an interview.

"[illegible] intend to go ahead and extend your [illegible]?" asked the reporter.

"[illegible] building it," was the reply.

"[illegible] the road from Pendleton? [illegible] the Umatilla river, or within the city?"

"[illegible] will you be ready to do business there?"

"[illegible] two weeks."

"[illegible] telling me what I want to find [illegible]."

"[illegible] would you like to know?"

"[illegible] like to know where else you [illegible]. I understand you have agreed to [illegible] Walla Walla and Dayton by way of [illegible]."

"[illegible] what I agreed to do."

"[illegible] building those extensions?"

"[illegible] work is well under way. About [illegible] beyond Walla Walla and [illegible] graded [illegible] miles of track is laid."

"[illegible] constitutional convention adopts a [illegible] counties from bonding the [illegible] subsidies for building railroads or [illegible] of any other purposes, will that [illegible] difference as to your extending your [illegible]?"

"[illegible] as to the lines just mentioned [illegible] people of Walla Walla and Columbia [illegible] make a contract with me and I [illegible] certain things and when I have [illegible] contracts, I have confidence that they [illegible] what they agreed to do."

"[illegible] been paying any special attention [illegible] section in the constitution providing [illegible] may bond themselves?"

"[illegible] East on the 2d of July and only [illegible] few days ago. It was not a matter [illegible] but for the people interested to [illegible] themselves."

"[illegible] the parties who have been working [illegible] have not been antagonizing [illegible]?"

"[illegible] it is the people of the country [illegible] the privilege of bonding their [illegible] looking after their own interests [illegible] welfare, whom they are antagonizing."

"[illegible] have not told me yet what I want to [illegible]. Are you going to build a road into Grand [illegible]?"

"[illegible] the people raise the subsidy."

"[illegible] any proposition to build roads to [illegible]?"

"[illegible] had other propositions."

"[illegible] they from, and where else do you [illegible] build?"

"[illegible] you are wanting to know too much [illegible] will know more as it gets older [illegible] reveal what you want to know, say [illegible]." Mr Hunt turned on his heel and bade [illegible] good night, as he seemed to be very [illegible] and evidently had something of [illegible] than reporters to attend to.

[illegible] COLESTIN MINERAL SPRINGS

[illegible] Healing Waters in Southern Oregon

August [illegible] 1889.

[illegible] OF THE OREGONIAN

[illegible] springs, in Southern Oregon, are [illegible] very popular, and this season the [illegible] are all taken and besides over 100 [illegible] in the grounds. The springs are [illegible] miles beyond Ashland, directly [illegible] & California railroad, two miles [illegible] Siskiyou tunnel, 4100 feet [illegible] high up in the mountains [illegible] some [illegible] there are magnificent ridges [illegible] all about us, so that the springs [illegible] wonderfully cool and pleasant [illegible] pine and other varieties [illegible] here in their full growth. Neither for [illegible] the ravages of the woodman have yet [illegible] the works of nature in these mountains. [illegible] Cole is the fortunate owner of 1100 [illegible] with the springs. [illegible] house [illegible] only twenty-five people, but [illegible] cottages and keep this [illegible] or house for cooking and eating [illegible] with children can then live by them [illegible] persons who are sickly or who [illegible] then enjoy the freedom of [illegible].

[illegible] has considerable iron in it and is [illegible] charged with carbonic acid. The people [illegible] here are mostly Eastern people who [illegible] Mount Shasta route remain here from [illegible] to a week. They say the water is [illegible] Congress water at Saratoga, and take [illegible] in drinking it freely in the morning [illegible] breakfast, drinking it all day and [illegible] pitchers of the water with them [illegible] tents. Boys sell it at the trains [illegible] and workers on the road fill their [illegible] and are happy. Perhaps this [illegible] Sanford said when he and his wife [illegible] not long ago. When drinking the [illegible] he said it was so refreshing that he [illegible] slightly intoxicating.

[illegible] mineral waters only a few hundred steps [illegible] Colestin station are destined to [illegible] and near. The water flows strong [illegible] the fact that these springs have been [illegible] forty years is a guarantee of their [illegible].

[illegible] is enraptured with the works of nature. The deer at night come down to the [illegible] drink, he is glad to have them around [illegible] not allow the shooting of deer on his [illegible]. Mr Cole knows all his trees [illegible] by name and he takes pleasure in [illegible] the care he gives to the young [illegible] pines that are growing up to take the [illegible] old ones. The air here is balmy [illegible] and its bracing influence with the [illegible] congress waters of Oregon would [illegible] many an invalid as they do the few [illegible], some say, give us seaside! but [illegible] these glorious mountain heights with [illegible] clad in eternal snow, [illegible] first temples—with these [illegible] healing waters.

THEY ARE OFF FOR TRIEST.

A Number of Austro-Hungarians Leave for That Far-Off Sea Port.

On the close of the salmon fishery, a large number of fishermen of foreign birth came up here. They were followed by a number of tough fellows whose intention was to get possession of the fishermen's money.

The police got after the whole crowd, and made things lively for them. Yesterday twenty-seven of the fishermen left for New York over the Oregon Short Line, bound for Triest. They took this route as they said they could get to New York by it eighteen hours sooner than by any other.

These fishermen are generally classed as Italians and any rowdyism they are guilty of, is charged to that nation, but they all hail from Triest, the principal seaport of Austro-Hungary, probably all belong in that vicinity, and are not Italians at all. They doubtless speak Italian as well as two or three other languages, which probably sound something like it to American ears. They are a hardy and rather hard-looking lot, and the profits of the summer's work will be pretty well [illegible] by the time they reach Triest.

HE HAD MANY GRIEVANCES

An Eastern Man Points Out Numerous Nuisances That Prevail

He Has Very Sensitive, High Strung Nerves, but He Tells Much Truth, After All.

"What is all the excitement about?" asked a reporter yesterday afternoon as he came up on a [illegible] of First street has [illegible] collected on the [illegible]. One of them who has not long been [illegible] from the East was talking rapidly and gesticulating [illegible] violently.

"[illegible] we want to see," said [illegible] Eastern man. "We are discussing the question [illegible] a petition asking the council to [illegible].

"[illegible] a city of any importance in the [illegible]," said the Eastern man, "except [illegible] where heavy trucks, loaded with bar iron and such stuff and brick wagons are allowed to drive along the principal business streets. They are made [illegible] less public streets where they are not such [illegible] annoyance. In the stores along First street we are compelled to suspend business when such [illegible] for no one can hear another talk, [illegible] deafening. Why should not such teams be made to travel up or down Second street? It is a better street for them, and [illegible] so many there to be annoyed. This is done in Chicago or Cincinnati or St. Louis. [illegible] teams drive along their principal streets [illegible] would warn them off, and [illegible] the drivers would be arrested."

Just at this time four big brick wagons which [illegible] their loads came along at a trot [illegible] a most terrible din and sending out [illegible] of brick dust which enveloped everything on the sidewalk and drifted into the doors of [illegible].

"[illegible] that," said the Eastern man. "Is there any need of that noise and dust here, spoiling [illegible] of all passers on this street where ladies do their shopping, and damaging goods inside the stores? Of course there [illegible]. The owners of those teams [illegible] wish them to thus annoy people, but the [illegible] they would like to see every one [illegible] dirty and just begrimed as themselves. [illegible] people have stood [illegible] it is high time it was stopped. The [illegible] for all the business men to [illegible] an ordinance to keep such teams and wagons off the most public streets."

Here he stopped quite out of breath and the reporter mildly inquired if there was anything else to complain of.

"Plenty, plenty," he yelled. "There is the nuisance of steamboat whistles. Is it necessary that every little steamboat which comes in from Mud creek or Stillwater with a few loads of hay and a few calves and a box or two of eggs, should wake the echoes of the city and jar the nerves of everybody with a series of prolonged whistles? As a general thing the more unimportant the boat the louder and longer the whistle. There are two little boats which run between this city and [illegible] half hour and never fail to give [illegible] every opportunity. The O. R. & N. Co.'s boats get along without all this [illegible] no reason why the small fry of [illegible] should not. They should blow their whistles to conform to the law and for the bridges, and [illegible] boat and no cheap captain should [illegible] to make so much noise in the world."

"Anything more?"

"Yes, plenty. There is the nuisance of being deafened by the shouting and howling of the hotel runners and hackmen when one lands in [illegible] from a train. This should be stopped. Then there is the Salvation Army and the [illegible] on the corners [illegible] every evening. The [illegible] are good, but [illegible] evidently not up to [illegible] things [illegible]" [illegible]

THE WATER RATES FIXED.

The Commissioners Present a Report Which Is Adopted.

The City Dads Transact Much Business of a Routine Nature—Bills—Finances—Ordinances—Etc.

There was a regular meeting of the East Portland council last night with Mayor Stewart in the chair, and a quorum present. The most important measure introduced was the report of the water commission composed of John H. Hall, Thomas R. Turnbull, H. C. Myers and Cyrus Buckman adopting [illegible].

THE SUMMER HEGIRA.

A Great Many People Out of the City—List of Guests at Cascades Springs

At present a great many Portlanders are out of the city rusticating in various ways and at different places. Rusticators are not confined to Portlanders, either, for the "hegira fever" is contagious and has spread far and wide. Crowds flock to the many points of interest along the coast, while the mountains and mineral springs are not forgotten. A note from the Cascade Springs gives the following list of guests now sojourning there:

QUIET DAY IN THE COURTS.

A Suit for Infringement of Patent by a Cash Register Company

Th[illegible] a Plaintiff Received in Justice [illegible] Court—Lutkemeyer in Hard Luck—Other Court Notes

The National Cash Register Company has begun [illegible] in the United States circuit court against Henry Meyer for infringement of patent.

The complaint [illegible] that Meyer is using a cash register and indicating machine which is an infringement of [illegible] patent and they ask for damages [illegible] of $1000 and that the court grant an injunction restraining Meyer from using [illegible] machines which infringe on their patent.

THE PLAINTIFF JAILED.

A case where [illegible] might be said that the biter was bitten came up before Justice [illegible] yesterday afternoon. It was the case of George H. McPherson, charged by Henry Schmidt with assault. [illegible] appeared at the investigation [illegible] Schmidt went into McPherson's saloon, which is situated on South First street, and wanted liquor. Being already intoxicated he was refused and thereupon grew abusive and proceeded to clean out the building. He was finally induced to go out but not until a struggle had ensued. He then swore out a warrant for the arrest of the proprietor. There was a strong odor of malicious persecution attending the affair and as the evidence did not prove the charge, the court dismissed the case and taxed the costs up to the complainant. Not having the money to pay this bill Schmidt was committed to jail.

LUTKEMEYER IN HARD LUCK.

Fred Lutkemeyer, the South Portland saloon keeper, seems to be playing in rather hard luck. Last Saturday he was arrested on complaint of Fred Schmidt, who charged him with larceny. The complainant alleges that on the 14th of last June he was in defendant's saloon, and, being under the influence of liquor gave to Lutkemeyer a check for $72 which had been previously endorsed. Next day the saloonist took it to the bank and cashed it and when Schmidt called to get his money it was not given to him.

Lutkemeyer denies that he ever had any of Schmidt's money, but says he is the victim of malicious persecution. Some time since defendant's wife had Max Eberhardt arrested on a charge of arson but the case was dismissed. Now it is claimed Eberhardt's friends are getting back at Lutkemeyer.

SUIT AGAINST WOODS.

Smith Bros & Co have begun an attachment suit against John E. Woods in the state circuit court to recover $1677 21.

PORTLAND WOMAN'S UNION.

More Room Needed to Accomodate Applicants Now Turned Away

The Regular Monthly Meeting Held Yesterday—Reports of the Treasurer and Finance and Household Committees

The regular quarterly meeting of the Portland Woman's Union was held in the [illegible] of the Unitarian church at [illegible] o'clock yesterday afternoon.

[illegible] attendance was small on account of so many [illegible] out of town.

The president, Mrs Burrell, being absent, Mrs. H. J. Corbett, the first vice-president, occupied the chair. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. [illegible] L. G[illegible]ld was elected secretary pro tem.

A condensed report of the treasurer, Mrs. [illegible], was as follows:

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Balance on hand May 1	$[illegible] 18
Receipts to August 1	[illegible] 06
Total	$[illegible] 4
Disbursements to August 1	[illegible]
Balance on hand	$12[illegible] 16

This report was accepted, as was also the following from the finance committee:

REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

To the President and Ladies of the Portland Woman's Union: The work of the finance committee during the past quarter has been entirely that of collecting membership dues. There having been so much to claim the attention of the public from other quarters there has been no attempt made to fill the treasury by any other means. The dues collected amounted to $29, and there are still due about $20.

The committee wishes to urge upon the union the necessity, from a financial standpoint, of having a larger boarding house, for with the present accommodations and the very moderate prices charged, there is an impossibility of making the house entirely self-supporting. If the house contained 150 rooms it would be quickly filled, and this is what we need.

Aside from a financial view of it, the very spirit of our enterprise demands that we provide room for the many that we are constantly obliged to turn away from our doors.

Respectfully submitted,

LIZZIE V. [illegible]GFROUID, Chairman.

The following report was accepted from the household committee:

HOUSEHOLD COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mrs President and Ladies: The report of the household committee for the quarter is encouraging. The home has been almost self-supporting for the past three months. We are full to overflowing, being obliged daily to refuse applicants for want of room. And now again I urge upon you the necessity of more room. Our plan, with your co-operation, is to build in the rear of the present house an addition—kitchen, dining room, laundry, etc., and over these sleeping apartments, and turn the present house entirely into bedrooms. In this way we would double our capacity at comparatively small expense, and increase our usefulness to the same degree. I urge this upon you, because it is not possible for us, as we now are, to do our duty by the public who depend upon us, or by ourselves, as serious workers in what we are sure to be a generous work. And in the name of the work I ask you to consider this question, give it your earnest support.

EMMA J. WEITY,
Chairman Household Committee.

The meeting was in full sympathy with the [illegible] change with a view to bettering the accommodations of the boarding house, and by motion a joint committee consisting of the finance and household committees were instructed to investigate the means of improvement and report at the next regular meeting of the board of directors.

Mrs. [illegible] spoke very interestingly of [illegible] Woman's [illegible] Boarding House in San Francisco.

Largest Record of Police Court Proceedings for Many Days.

The Offenders Judge Tanner Dispensed Justice to Yesterday—Drunks, Vags, Beggars, Etc.—A Crowded Court Room

The city police court yesterday presented a lively appearance and Judge Tanner disposed of one of the largest dockets that have appeared in court for a long time. It was certainly the largest day's work since Judge Tanner has occupied the position of police judge. There were seventy-two names on the transcript. Several benches were taken from the spectators' lobby to accommodate the prisoners, and even with this addition to the seating capacity quite a number had to sit on chairs on the window sill and stand up.

The spectators' lobby was crowded to its utmost capacity and officer [illegible] at [illegible] until the [illegible] something like a healthy [illegible].

This is the July run [illegible] an old tar who was taking in [illegible] from his seat on the railing. All the [illegible] quit work on the 1st of August and most of them have come to town to [illegible] their money. This accounts for the large number of drunks.

[illegible] not a few of the common drunks [illegible] the fine from $5 the [illegible].

The following cases were disposed of:

DRUNKS, [illegible] AND OTHERWISE.

The list of drunks comprised a motley crowd of lovers of the [illegible] to began [illegible] serious when they [illegible] that it was no off day for light fines. Armstrong, W. V. Cook, Dennis O'Brien, John Reed, Lawrence [illegible] were fined $5 each. [illegible] Mrs. Fearon, [illegible] Kelly, James Hill, R. F. Cruger, [illegible], William Martin, John [illegible], John Kennedy and William Kent [illegible] were fined $10 each. William All[illegible] and Thomas Freeman were fined $20 each. William [illegible] was fined $15 on two charges. [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] thirty days in the city jail. [illegible] and Henry Emmert obtained a continuance until this afternoon.

Dudley Evans and Henry Miller were arrested for turning in an alarm in one of the call boxes of the American District Telegraph Company, and then running away. They entered a plea of not guilty, and will have an examination this afternoon.

TOUGHS, TRAMPS AND BEGGARS.

The members of the boxcar brigade, otherwise known as vags and hobos, were handled without gloves, heavy fines being imposed in each case. [illegible] Burch, George Lindacomb, William Perch, Eugene Sullivan, William Smith and Frank Foster, charged with vagrancy, were fined $60 each. Mike Smith, charged with the same offense, was fined $10, and Harry Anderson and William Patterson, similarly charged, were let off with $30 each.

William Hannagin, John Riley and Frank Jones, charged with begging, were fined $40 each. John Tate, same charge, $50. James Riley and William Harris were fined $20 each for trespassing and James White was fined $20 for roaming the streets after 12 o'clock midnight.

JOHN MILLER'S ASSAILANT.

Ernest Cross, the man charged with shooting John Miller in the eye during a quarrel at the St. Paul house on Third street, early Sunday morning, occupied a seat in the dock with the other prisoners. He appeared a little nervous. Awaiting developments in the condition of Miller, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney W. D. Simon asked that the arraignment be continued until this afternoon. The order was made.

MISCELLANEOUS CASES.

The testimony in the case of Max Eberhardt, charged with using abusive language to Henry Miller was taken yesterday, and this afternoon the case will be argued and submitted to the court.

The charge of larceny preferred against F. Hill by Mrs. Ann [illegible] was dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney. Mrs. Peterson alleged that Hill appropriated $70 of the money, but there was no evidence of any kind to substantiate the charge.

The following cases were continued until this afternoon: Jane [illegible], charged with using abusive language to C. A. Smith; Henry Emmert, assault and battery on O. Williams, and Dan Kelly, [illegible] two pair of shoes from the shoe store of [illegible] Arfeldt.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE.

Calamities of great magnitude, visiting cities all around Portland, illustrate the painful truth that new and active communities pushing on to [illegible] life and growth seldom look ahead [illegible] prepare for unseen dangers. The people [illegible] are too busy in [illegible] to make the necessary precautions to protect the fruits and results of toil and struggle, of perhaps privation and suffering, and the question of future safety, especially from fire, is left to care for itself until the hour when terrible [illegible] for one decennium, and citizens, dumb with despair, behold the work of a life time destroyed by the flames in an hour. The recent experiences of Seattle, [illegible] Ellensburgh and Spokane Falls should impress this lesson upon the people of Portland and with some practical effect.

Our growth has been continuous and steady, but engrossed as we are [illegible] pursuits we scarcely notice it. [illegible] Immense buildings rapidly spring up, factories are built, river front [illegible], new wharves are built [illegible] and new industries constantly develop, and all so quietly and unostentatiously [illegible] that we, like others, neglect to grow in all things proportionately. And so while our development and progress have been extending for years past, improvements and additions to our fire service have not been kept up in a like proportion.

We have the sixth annual report of the board of fire commissioners, which shows that during 1888 we added to the machinery of the department [illegible] ladder truck, at a cost of [illegible], purchased some 1500 feet of hose, [illegible] in all $11,435 10 for the purchase of [illegible] materials. The numerical strength of the fire department at present consists of [illegible] two uniformed firemen and fifty [illegible] that may be brought into service at call, and there are only five steam engines and four hose and truck companies. The department is active and efficient, but it alone is not sufficient for the protection of property covering the extensive area of Portland.

It goes without saying that when there is no fire we can dispense with the whole department, but it is continuously in danger that we are now preparing for, and [illegible] while we are at it that the [illegible] tions be full and adequate to insure sure able protection to the property of the city. Great improvements were made in the fire department some years ago, and the decrease in fire losses since that time shows that those improvements and continued expenditures were thoroughly warranted. Let this table attest:

In 1883 total losses amounted to	[illegible]
In 1884	[illegible]
In 1885	[illegible]
In 1886	[illegible]
In 1887	[illegible]
In 1888	[illegible]

In view of the situation THE OREGONIAN urges upon the people of Portland the absolute necessity of police patrolmen [illegible] at night, instructed to exercise [illegible] vigilance to prevent the incendiaries from getting in their destructive work [illegible] visable to [illegible] water mains to the [illegible] limits of the city. The [illegible] should be empowered to purchase [illegible] first class steam fire engine [illegible] increase in the regular force [illegible] making the total number [illegible] 100. This could be [illegible] the call men to the regular [illegible] quite true that the [illegible] ments are going to cost [illegible] $54,000 [illegible] penditure it would seem to be a wise outlay.

The last suggestion to the Portland [illegible] is perhaps the highest importance. The fire commissioners have been [illegible] many times by all classes of the community to put a fire boat on the river. It is true the matter of funds is an embarrassment, but the city should provide them. [illegible] most exposed part of the city is the river front, and fire there, if it should obtain headway, would do more harm than anywhere else. If a vessel at anchor or a wharf should catch fire with a stiff breeze blowing, even admitting the undisputed efficiency of our fire department, the river front would be speedily doomed to destruction, and with it probably millions of dollars worth of merchandise. As [illegible] protection against this as human wisdom can suggest is a fire boat capable of throwing many large streams. The cost of such a boat would be small in comparison with the service it would render in case of necessity, and a fire boat, therefore, should be provided, with the least possible delay. These necessary additions to the fire service of Portland can be had only through the cheerful co-operation of the common council and the fire commission, and such co-operation is a necessity for the public safety.

SPOKANE'S CALAMITY.

The fruits of local industry and thrift have again been swallowed up by disaster, and another enterprising city of Washington territory is in ashes. Spokane Falls, whose phenomenal growth within the past three years has astonished even the most [illegible], citizens, after a conflict of two hours with the flames, shared the fate of Seattle and Ellensburgh in the destruction of the entire business section. It is remarkable [illegible] calamity to tread so swiftly upon the heels of calamity as it has done in the succession of disasters that in less than two months has resulted in the destruction of property of an aggregate value of many millions in the three chief cities of a commonwealth. It is gratifying to note, however, the [illegible] energy with which these disasters have been met, and the courage that, rising superior to loss and discouragement, busied itself in planning a new city while viewing the smoking ruins of the old. The sharp distress that is the inevitable result of a calamity of this sudden and all consuming type will be relieved in this as in former instances at the earliest possible moment by full handed generosity. There is no need to ask "what can we do to serve you?" in a stress of this kind. There is but one thing to do, and that is to forward supplies as rapidly as possible. The prompt action of our citizens proves that they understand this fully, and the first installment of that which is most urgently needed is already on the way. Happily the homes of the people in this instance, as in the others cited, are in the main spared, so that shelter and clothing on families are not among the pressing necessities that appeal to generosity for relief. Temporary assistance, help to help themselves, is all that an energetic people require, and all that a spirited people will accept. This will be furnished without hesitation by those who have been fortunate thus far in this year of misfortunes in escaping disaster from the elements.

RED VERSUS YELLOW FIR.

Some weeks ago a man reputed to be a Michigan lumberman, after a hurried glance at this coast, was interviewed by a Puget sound newspaper man. In that interview he pronounced, in a decidedly ex cathedra manner, that "Oregon pine was worthless for shipbuilding purposes." Of course this is absolutely false, and the Michigan [illegible] man only exposed his ignorance of the subject. Oregon pine is of two kinds, known at the mills as red and yellow fir. The latter is not only a most durable wood, but its fibre has great strength, the experiments at the Mare island navy yard showing it to be equal to Eastern white oak in tensile strength. There is no man better fitted to speak on this subject than Captain J. W. White of the U. S. revenue marine. He built the Corwin here in 1876. He carefully selected her timbers of yellow fir, and now, after a lapse of thirteen years, he declares she is perfectly sound. [illegible] hard wood ship could have [illegible] a better [illegible]. The Wolcott [illegible] in 1873 out of Oregon yellow fir. [illegible] years have elapsed and [illegible] is sound. Captain White's words should carry great weight. He knows the difference between the two kinds of woods.

Much of the belief existing in regard to the nonlasting qualities of Oregon pine (fir) comes from the inability or failure to distinguish between the two kinds. If an Eastern ship builder were to indiscriminately use [illegible] black [illegible] he would [illegible] expect her to [illegible] class [illegible] for fourteen years either in the English or American [illegible] or the bureau veritas, and this is just about what some of our railroad and steamboat and steamship builders [illegible] doing on this coast in the use of fir wood.

We call attention to Captain White's [illegible] as [illegible] to the Engineering News of New York some months ago and now republished [illegible].

THE [illegible] SITUATION.

[illegible] THE OREGONIAN reprinted from the New York Times a special cable dispatch giving a gloomy account of crop prospects in Europe and Asia. The same paper now comes with another dispatch from the same source which declares that the situation is more serious than it was two weeks earlier. Russian official reports admit that the wheat crop is the worst in [illegible] years, and the government will [illegible], in order to prevent a food panic in the empire. [illegible] correspondent then presents other facts:

[illegible] not only destroyed the [illegible] and other [illegible] this [illegible] of Bohemia and Moravia very [illegible] reports from [illegible] are [illegible] $2,000,000 [illegible] that both England and France [illegible] could [illegible] England [illegible] for the year will [illegible] worked [illegible] have within a week advanced from 1s 6d to 1s 6d [illegible] the writer [illegible] to be [illegible] national seed [illegible] consid[illegible]. This is [illegible] sudden [illegible].

[illegible] brought [illegible] the con[illegible] for a [illegible] divides [illegible] Our people [illegible] lying the [illegible] A number of small [illegible] ful operation [illegible] the best [illegible] though that large creameries could [illegible] and [illegible] the ef[illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] portions of [illegible] range. It would [illegible] know exactly [illegible] have proved unprofit[illegible] not secure a sup[illegible] and the cause [illegible] will be remedied in [illegible] capacity for the production of [illegible]. But the fact [illegible] California and Iowa can make [illegible] Our people would not like to be [illegible] do as [illegible] and California [illegible] but it looks very much to those [illegible] would [illegible] here a con[illegible] market for dairy products for years to come [illegible] a profit at [illegible] follow it [illegible] the natural [illegible] dairy? Every [illegible] the sugges[illegible] thous[illegible] also to supply all the [illegible] excel[illegible] abound [illegible] that we have an excellent [illegible] good as exists anywhere and [illegible] can be improved [illegible] that a dairy [illegible] streams to [illegible] call this [illegible].

No doubt [illegible] must be made for [illegible] and such large creameries as are new to our state. If there was any practical reason why the country could not successfully compete with the world it would do [illegible] but there is not. Oregon can support such enterprises and will find [illegible]. This is only a sample of what we undergo in starting any new feature of [illegible], but in the end we shall surmount all obstacles.

VIRGINIA'S [illegible] GAIN.

The political contest of the present year in Virginia will turn to some extent on the old controversy about the state debt. There is now to be an earnest effort in that state to induce the national government to grant to Virginia some measure of relief. The ante bellum debt of Virginia was about $40,000,000. Withdrawal of territory and population incident to the creation of the state of West Virginia injured Virginia's credit and added to her burdens, because it took from her one-third of her tax paying power. Blaine is on the record in favor of adjustment by the general government. In his "Twenty Years in Congress" he writes:

"Virginia owed a large debt held in great part by loyal citizens of the North and by subjects of foreign countries. The burden was already as heavy as she could bear in her entirety, and dismemberment so crippled her that she could not meet her obligations. The United States might well have relieved Virginia and done justice to her creditors by making some allowance for the division of her territory. Regarding her as only entitled to the [illegible] of a public enemy so long as she warred upon the Union, we may confidently [illegible] that she is entitled at least to [illegible] treatment as the national government extend to a foreign foe." Mr. Blaine then cites our generous treatment of Mexico in the Texas negotiations. He shows that the benefits secured by the territorial separation did not accrue to the people of West Virginia so much as they did to the entire country, and asserts that she cannot be held morally or legally responsible. Assured [illegible] there was no ground for distressing Virginia by penal enactments that did not apply to every other state of the Union. Common justice revolts against the [illegible] for punishment from eleven [illegible] had been equally guilty of some [illegible].

These comments upon the [illegible] of West Virginia as a state constitute a direct and earnest argument for the application of national funds to relieve Virginia. [illegible] and it is believed that the republicans of Virginia in their platform this year will declare in favor of the policy [illegible] by Mr. Blaine, and appeal to the [illegible] of the state to formulate a demand that it shall be carried out. Under political pressure the [illegible] might have promise of success. [illegible] even if the republicans of Virginia make the demand, it is probable the democrats of the state will make it also. It would not be at all strange to see the question become [illegible] of practical politics in Virginia, and if it should, it would also become [illegible] national question throughout the country. It is receiving just now a great deal of attention in Virginia, and may be forced upon the country as a new question in national politics. It is easy to see that it can be of importance only as it may effect Virginia's political status for the future. Either party would very probably be willing to pay a price for political control of the state.

A NATIONAL BANKRUPT LAW.

An adjourned meeting of a national convention of commercial bodies that met in St. Louis last February to consider the subject of a national bankrupt law will be held in Minneapolis on the 3d of September. The St. Louis convention approved the Lowell law, which failed four years ago through the indifference rather than the opposition of congress, and a committee was appointed to draft a law and submit the same at the September meeting. The expression in favor of a national bankrupt law was firm and decided, the demand being for such legislation as will secure protection to the honest merchant and establish a uniform system for the collection, preservation and pro rata distribution of the estates of merchants at a minimum percentage of expense. In the opinion of the commercial men who composed this body, the variant state laws not only fail to secure such protection, but rather encourage fraud and unjust preferences.

From the utterances of the commercial bodies often one might suppose that the desire for such a law was strong throughout the country. There is ample evidence, however, that such is not the case. Remonstrances numerously signed have met every attempt to pass a national law like the one proposed since 1879, in which year the law of 1867 was repealed.

The Lowell measure, which seems to find much stronger approval among commercial bodies than it did among congressmen or the general body of their constituents, embodied to some extent the primitive idea which appears in the English bankrupt law—a sort of disciplinary intent designed to make the debtor feel that it is a crime to fail in business, a thing that honest men reject as unjust to those who are compelled by financial pressure which they cannot foresee or control to [illegible] the [illegible] term that they [illegible] with the [illegible].

[illegible] object of [illegible] legislation [illegible] to provide a way by which a debtor can effect a compromise with his creditors [illegible] relieve himself of [illegible] more than his best [illegible]. A national law that will secure justice between debtor and creditor through the surrender of all assets and their equitable distribution is desirable, certainly, but the result of attempts to secure this end in the past is not encouraging to further efforts in this direction. Since the organization of our government three bankrupt laws have been passed at the instance of the debtor class after seasons of financial trouble, and these were successively repealed after having served the purpose of their instigators. The first of these, passed in 1800, was repealed three years later; the second, passed in 1841, also lasted three years, while that of 1867 was not repealed until 1879. The history of bankrupt legislation in congress shows that disciplinary laws in this direction are not approved by the public, and it is doubtful whether one embodying such a feature will again be enacted. The only kind of a national bankrupt law that would be generally popular would be one that fixes a limit to exemptions, secures the surrender of the whole of the assets and promptly and economically distributes them. The heavily penal features of the English law will never be transplanted in the United States, where the object is not to disable the debtor or subject him to the unjust resentment of creditors and cover him with obloquy, but to exact justice as nearly as possible between the parties interested and enable the debtor to get on his feet again as soon as possible.

PRESERVE THE FORESTS.

Land covered with timber is yet abundant in Oregon, and is likely to be so for many years to come, even if the present rapid rate of cutting for [illegible] and clearing purposes [illegible]. [illegible] much is [illegible] with [illegible] to this [illegible] for that very reason any [illegible] will more surely be visited with its pernicious consequences. [illegible] especially [illegible] to the destruction of our forests than to any other subject.

The scientists of this and other countries agree that the loss of trees on the highlands has a direct influence on the fertility of soil, the amount of moisture obtainable from the clouds and the flow of rivers. Felix L. Oswald in the August Lippincott's says America too has begun to suffer severely from river floods, and it is an ominous fact that the last five inundations of the Ohio Valley showed a steady increase in the volume of the [illegible]. The Johnstown horror was caused by a perhaps unparalleled combination of unlucky circumstances, but that the disaster cannot be attributed exclusively to the insufficient strength of the South Fork dam is proved by the simultaneous [illegible] of several river valleys in Western New York and East Virginia, and he attributes these calamities to forest destruction.

It was once the proud boast of Oregon that never since the settlement of the country had she known a failure of crops. This boast has become feebler, and it is not likely to be repeated so often if we continue to destroy the forests without exerting some counteracting influences. There are a number of forestry associations throughout the country that endeavor to impress upon the people the importance of planting trees of all the different varieties. We have had so great an abundance of woods heretofore that we have paid no attention to timber culture, and yet no one who stops to consider can fail to see the importance of building up the natural timber interests to provide against the future consequences of tearing down. The deserts that we create by timber destruction can only be redeemed by tree culture. That this can be successfully done is proved by an Egyptian experiment. In 1832 Mehemet Ali decided to try his luck with the wadies or sand plains on the coast of Egypt. Upper Egypt, Abyssinia and the slopes of Mount Caucasus were overrun by the tree agents of the autocrat, trees by ship loads and caravan loads were landed at Cairo and distributed to the overseers of an army of Fellahs, and, according

Water Fourteen Feet at High Tide on the Siuslaw Bar

It Will Be Impossible to Complete the Lighthouse on Destruction Island This Season—Other Notes

HE SPAKE NOT.—The deaf and dumb boot black and newsboy who has traveled all over the United States in the prosecution of his vocation was found up in Portland yesterday. Officer ... again looked up to see him for the first ... happening to see him for the first ... and up on ... curious character ... going up to him he asked him his business. The bootblack looked at the officer and then replied not. The mute astonishment that replied not. The officer asked him again and again, the ... was a defiant silence with a great ... of Apache Indian gesticulation. The officer took the insult no longer. What right ... a man to refuse an officer of the law such answer? It is an offense against the dignity of the city, yea, and of the police department. The silent bootblack was taken to the ... The Western Union telegraph ... with the rapidity of a lightning ... was explained ... Everything was explained ... a good laugh all around, and the deaf mute was allowed to go in peace.

MOUTH OF THE SIUSLAW.—Mr Gwin A Tydel of Captain Youngs's office United States engineers who is in charge of a party surveying the various bays and estuaries along the coast, writes that ... mouth of the Siuslaw has succeeded in running ... lines of soundings across the bar and the ... north and south spits. He reports fourteen feet ... on the bar at high tide. The steamer ... the party was able to steam at full speed ... the entrance of the river to the head of tide ... a distance of twenty-three miles, without ... a rock. He concludes by saying ... think the Siuslaw the finest stream we ... south of the Columbia. A survey of the ... was made from the entrance to a point one mile above Florence."

NOT COMPLETED THIS SEASON.—Major T H Handbury, United States engineers, states that it will be impossible to complete the lighthouse on Destruction island this season. He is making an effort to have the fog signal completed this fall. The machinery and boilers, and siren which is to warn people from danger instead of luring them to destruction, as did the sirens of old, are on the island ready to set up. The completion of the fog signal is of more importance than the light, as the greatest danger to mariners on that coast is from fog. As soon as the necessary appropriation has been secured, the light station will be completed.

A NOISY NUISANCE.—The number of persons whose mission in life appears to be to sing and hold loud discourse on street corners is on the increase, and this sort of thing is becoming as great a nuisance as the Salvation Army. It is the opinion of a great many people that this nuisance should be put a stop to as it is in many well regulated cities. The council will probably be asked to pass an ordinance to prevent all singing, shouting, band playing and all useless and senseless demonstrations on the streets, so that orderly sensible people can go about their business in peace.

BRADSTREET'S FAILURE STATISTICS.—For the month ending July 31 1889 there were reported to the Portland office of the Bradstreet mercantile agency six failures in Oregon, with total assets of $250 total liabilities $5179. In July 1888 there were seven failures with assets of $35,362, debts $64,400. In July, 1889 there were reported thirteen failures in Washington, total actual assets $22,900, debts $51,205; against eight failures in July, 1888, with assets of $24,500 debts $38,100. The report from California for July, 1889 includes fifty failures, with total assets of $107,499, debts $24..122.

PROSTRATED BY FIRE.—A fire on the line of the O. R. & N. Sunday night, destroyed an immense quantity of cordwood piled along the side of the road a few miles this side of Troutdale, also burned the ties for about 200 feet, and prostrated the telegraph wires, cutting off connections. A bridge burned on the Northern Pacific and shut off telegraph connection by that route. Yesterday afternoon the only way in which Spokane could be reached by wire from this city was via San Francisco Ogden and Helena and there was several hours work ahead for that.

PRESENTED HIS BOND.—Mr T Jay Buford, of Corvallis who has been appointed agent at the Siletz Indian reservation presented his bond for $15,000 to Judge Deady yesterday for approval. The bondsmen being good ... the bond was approved and Mr Buford will forthwith proceed to assume the duties of his office. He is not likely to prove a defaulter as he and Mr Sol King, two of his bondsmen were on the bond of Bro Bagley who was agent at that ... some years since and they had to pay $ ... each for a shortage in his accounts.

THE NEW O. R. & N. TUG.—The Willamette Shipbuilding Company of East Portland are pushing the work on the O R & N Co's new towboat. The hull has been completed and the engines and boilers are in place being lined up. The housework and deck yet remain to be finished. Competent judges say that this boat will be when finished one of the strongest built tugs on the coast. At all events, it is as strong as wood and iron can make it. The new boat will be launched early in September.

WORK FOR THE HUMANE SOCIETY.—The members of the Humane Society would perhaps find something to interest them in Chinatown by watching some of the celestials carry ducks and other fowls through the streets by the wings. They grasp the two wings with one hand bringing them close together and then swing them through the air in the most heartless and cruel manner. This is an every day occurrence. Yet goes unnoticed by the public, and the Humane society whose special business it is to prevent any such needless cruelty.

FOR RIVER POLICEMAN.—A petition largely signed will come up before the council to-morrow night asking them to appoint Hugh Brady to the position of river policeman, in accordance with the provisions of an act passed by the last legislature. Mr Brady is well known in connection with the river, as he has recovered the bodies of more than twenty drowned persons from its depths. In the petition he receives a very flattering recommendation for honesty, sobriety, etc.

LARGE BUT NOT THE LARGEST.—The docket in the police court yesterday was the largest had for a long time but not the largest in the history of the city. During the administration of Chief of Police Watkins, a raid was made on the ... games, and 132 players were arrested ... one day. While Chief Lappeus was at the head of the police department about 03 ... were arrested at one time for violating the cubic air ordinance.

A PRECARIOUS DRUNK.—At an early hour this morning Officer Ryan arrested a drunk ... lying on the sidewalk on the corner of Front and B streets. On being taken to the station and searched $44 in greenbacks and $5 in silver besides a dozen or more Louisiana lottery tickets were found on his person. He gave the name of John Seelman and was so drunk that he could hardly stand up.

SPOKANE FALLS FIRE.—The numerous stockholders of the Pacific Fire Insurance company will be pleased to learn that the losses of the company are not heavy and will be adjusted as speedily as possible ... president of the company together with an experienced adjuster will start ... morning for Spokane prepared to make payments by sight drafts.

BATTERY A WILL GIVE A PICNIC.—Battery A will give a picnic at Camp West ... seventeen miles from Portland ... of the P. & W V railway on Sunday August ... There will be a street parade on the evening before. The proceeds of the picnic will be used to pay for the new uniforms which the men will wear on that day for the first time.

B. OF L. F. NOTICE.—All members of the B. of L. F. who can make it convenient are requested to meet at the hall of J. B. Maynard Lodge 193 in East-Portland, at 12 o'clock noon to participate in the exercises of the funeral of our late Brother E. Q. Guthrie, to take place from his home at 67 Columbia street at 3:00 P. M. ... Secretary.

AUCTION SALE.—That valuable real estate known as the Walker Place situated ... Corbett road, having a grand and commanding view of Portland and surrounding country will be sold to-day at the court house door, at 10 o'clock A. M. by A. B. Richardson, auctioneer.

LIGHT FOR SPRAGUE.—The town of Sprague in Eastern Washington is determined to keep up with the procession and has ordered 300 incandescent lamps and a compound Westinghouse engine to run them. The plant is to be in operation by October 1st.

EN ROUTE FOR SALEM.—Sheriff George Herbert of The Dalles, stopped in Portland last night with an insane man named A J Leck in charge on his way to the insane asylum at Salem. Leck was placed in a cell at the city jail.

THE PAPER MILL.—The paper mill at Oregon City will be erected by the Crown Paper Company of San Francisco, and will make straw board and straw paper and of the two will turn out ten tons per day.

RIGHT IN THE DOORWAY.—As you step into J Selling & Co.'s store you will see a huge stack of white spreads piled up. A big spread fine pattern, heavy grade all for 85c.

ON BUSINESS.—Mr J B Kirkland general agent for the Union Pacific and O. R. & N. companies at San Francisco is in the city for a few days on business.

OF INTEREST TO SEAMEN

Their Attention Is Called to a Recent Act of the Legislature.

Mr James Laidlaw, British vice consul desires to call the attention of seamen to the following:

That the state of Oregon by a recent act has granted them exceptional privileges for the purpose of enabling them to free themselves from the actual state of bondage in which so many become involved. That there is no reason why they should not make their own arrangements for employment without the intervention of any third party, and that they will be protected in so doing. That no charge can be legally enforced against sailors for procuring them employment but on the contrary, the act provides severe penalties against any one even demanding such remuneration.

That the British government has instructed its officers in Oregon to do all in their power to promote the successful working of the act and to cooperate with the state officer appointed under it.

That the Board of Trade of this port has taken steps to assist in the enforcement of the act and will ... the prosecution of any person contravening it.

Masters and seamen are earnestly requested to cooperate in the enforcement of the act for the express purpose of putting down a system of imposition and extortion.

THE DAY AT OLYMPIA.

All the Spokane Members Return to the Stricken City.

AN ARTICLE ON IMPEACHMENT

A Separate Article on Prohibition To Be Submitted to the People—Section 21 of the Corporations Article Rejected.

OLYMPIA, W T, Aug. 5.—The convention met at 9 A. M., the president in the chair.

Prayer was offered by Chaplain Thompson.

At the roll call all were present except those excused.

All of the Spokane Falls members asked and were granted indefinite leaves of absence.

The records were read, corrected and approved.

Minor said that in view of the sad tidings received this morning of what had happened to a city whose progress had been the pride of the whole territory, he would move that the sympathy of the convention be telegraphed by the chair.

Williston—What city, and what calamity?

Minor—The destruction of Spokane Falls by fire.

The chair was so instructed.

The chair submitted a telegram from C T Uhlman, of Tacoma, directed to Delegate Dunbar, asking for a clause in the constitution prohibiting railroad companies from discriminating against telegraph companies, tabled for information in committee of the whole.

Willison presented petitions for a board of vital statistics from A. B Kibble and others; referred to the committee on public health.

The chair submitted a telegram from Port Townsend, signed by D W Smith and others, protesting against the selling of the tide lands to the highest bidder, which was alleged to be a railroad scheme; also another telegram from Tacoma, signed by Tom Wampler, suggesting a commission de lunatico inquirendo for all such members as recommend a limit of 1½ per cent. for the indebtedness of municipalities.

Prosser submitted a proposition looking to the protection of the forests, referred to the committee on state lands.

Moore asked that Chief Clerk Booge be granted leave of absence for ten days on account of the Spokane fire, and stated that he had arranged with P. B. Johnson, of Walla Walla, to serve in his place, granted.

Bowen moved the privileges of the floor to General Milroy, an old veteran of two wars and a former member of the Walla Walla convention.

Warner asked the same for Professor Kerr, of Walla Walla, and Henry for Colonel E J Allen, of Montesano, who asked for a territorial government for Washington territory.

All of these requests were granted.

Johnson was sworn in as chief clerk.

Sturdevant presented the report of the committee on miscellaneous subjects on the method of amending the constitution; ordered printed and tabled temporarily.

Comegys gave notice that he should to-morrow move to reconsider the vote on the article relative to federal jurisdiction.

REPORT OF THE JUDICIAL COMMITTEE.

Turner submitted the report of the judicial committee, recommending an article on impeachment, providing that the house of representatives shall have sole power of impeachment, the senate to sit in judgment, and no conviction to be had except on vote of three-quarters of the senators and punishment to extend only to removal from office; printed and tabled temporarily.

Also a report on section 16 of the preamble and bill of rights, providing that private property shall not be taken for private uses except under stated conditions. The principal point which the committee recommended is an addition to section 16, as heretofore considered, viz., "'whenever an attempt is made to take private property for a use alleged to be public, the question whether the contemplated use be really public shall be a judicial question, and determined as such without regard to any legislative assertion that the use is public." Printed and tabled temporarily.

Also a third report on the proposition of H F Allen, relative to salaries on which the committee recommended non adoption, tabled temporarily.

Also on another proposition of H E Allen relative to limitation of the time within which actions may be begun by the state against persons, not recommended and tabled temporarily.

Also an article on non judicial days and legal holidays, presented by J M Reed, not recommended, tabled temporarily.

WATER AND WATER RIGHTS.

The Committee's Report Adopted in Committee of the Whole

Dyer moved to go into committee of the whole on the report of the committee on water and water rights, so voted, and Mr Dyer resumed the chair.

Griffitts said the committee on water and water rights desired to have the article back again and so he moved that the committee rise and recommend reference to that committee, so voted and the president resumed the chair.

Dyer reported, and the article was recommitted.

The next business was the report of the committee on state, school and granted lands.

Cosgrove said he sent in a minority report which had not been printed.

Dunbar said another minority report was in existence not yet handed in.

The article was passed for to-day.

The next on the calendar was the report of the committee on miscellaneous subjects recommending prohibition to be submitted separately.

It was read.

Griffitts said this report was being distributed while he spoke, and he wished more time to consider the rights of the convention as to separate submission.

The article was passed for to-day.

Griffitts moved suspension of the rules and the taking up of the report made this morning from the judicial committee on section 16 of the preamble and bill of rights relative to the taking of private property for public and private uses.

The rules were suspended—yeas 28, nays 11.

Griffitts moved to go into committee of the whole on that report, so voted and Mr Comegys was called to the chair, after Mr Manly had been called but excused.

The article was read and Minor moved its adoption.

Dyer asked for information, and Crowley told him that this was substantially the section on this subject in the Colorado constitution.

It was read again at Weisenburger's request but it was somewhat long and he wanted to amend, but desired to see it printed, and moved that the committee rise and recommend that it be printed.

Crowley said it was important and ought to be printed.

Griffitts said it amounted to the same thing to pass Minor's motion, and then any amendments could be made before the convention.

No one said it didn't amount to the same thing so the committee adopted the section, rose and recommended that it be printed and adopted, and after the president resumed the chair, Comegys so reported. Printing was ordered, and the article tabled to wait for the printer.

Griffitts moved to reconsider the vote on the article granting federal jurisdiction over military reservations, and it was reconsidered. Practically the same old debate was gone over again for the third time by Moore, Comegys, Griffitts, Dunbar and Cosgrove, after which the article was adopted by roll call, as usual—yeas 56, nays 6.

FOR PROHIBITION

A Separate Article to Be Submitted to the People

Dyer moved that the convention take up the report of the committee on miscellaneous subjects, which earlier in the forenoon had been passed over on motion of Griffitts, relative to separate submission of prohibition.

Buchanan moved its adoption.

Shoudy moved indefinite postponement.

Dunbar, T M. Reed, E H Sullivan and Cosgrove opposed indefinite postponement.

Shoudy said this report would make this article a part of the constitution itself.

The chair said he understood that, however the report read, it meant separate submission.

Shoudy said on that understanding he would withdraw his motion.

Griffitts had seconded the motion, and he objected to its withdrawal. The report clearly intended this to be a part of the constitution and that had already been decided negatively.

Dickey said the committee only intended to recommend separate submission.

Crowley, T M Reed, Moore, Griffitts, Comegys, Godman, Warner and Dyer held a talk about it and then Dunbar called for the yeas and nays on the question of indefinite postponement [illegible] with the following result [illegible] nays [illegible].

Prosser then [illegible] amendment [illegible] in express terms that this article be separately submitted, ruled out of order by the chair.

Godman submitted an [illegible] amendment providing that the article [illegible] as the schedule committee may [illegible].

Griffitts said [illegible] not be adopted [illegible] but [illegible] resolution be adopted [illegible] separately submitted.

The chair said that only [illegible] considered now. If no one [illegible] amendments, then the form of submission [illegible] come next.

No one had any amendments to offer [illegible] moved that the article be adopted for [illegible] submission in such form as the schedule committee may provide; adopted on roll call by ayes 61, noes 11.

The article to be submitted is as follows: "It shall not be lawful for any individual, company or corporation within the limits of this state to manufacture or cause to be manufactured, or to sell or offer for sale, or in any manner dispose of any alcoholic, malt or spirituous liquors, except for medicinal, sacramental or scientific purposes."

The chair submitted a telegram from citizens of Winlock, favoring a constitutional provision to secure equal rights on railroads, tabled temporarily.

On motion of Minor at 10.45 the convention took a recess until 2 P. M.

TO SPOKANE FALLS.

Following is the telegram which the president will send to Spokane Falls, in accordance with the vote of the convention this morning:

To the Mayor and Citizens of Spokane Falls — The convention, by unanimous resolution, extends sympathy in this trying hour. We feel in common the great affliction that has come to you, but believe that your enterprising people will conquer this disaster and retain their commanding position. J. P. HOYT, President

CORPORATIONS.

Section 21 Fails in Committee of the Whole.

In the afternoon the convention met at 2 o clock, the president in the chair.

Warner, by general consent, submitted a minority report from the committee on state lands, signed by himself, recommending a substitute for section 3, providing for the sale of state lands to the highest bidder, with an allowance for improvements if the actual improver should not be the purchaser, and a substitute for section 4, allowing school lands to be leased or sold. Timber lands not to be sold but timber may be, and coal lands only leased on royalties. All proceeds from the sale and stumpage of school lands to be an irreducible school fund, invested only in United States, county and municipal bonds, tabled temporarily and ordered printed.

Gowey, by general consent, presented a majority report on revenue and taxation signed by Gowey, chairman, Berry secretary, Dyer, Bowen, Sohns, Fairweather. Also a minority report, signed by Godman and Suksdorf. Also a minority report, signed by Berry. All three were tabled temporarily and ordered printed.

Moore presented majority and minority reports of the committee on legislative department. Both were tabled temporarily and ordered printed.

On motion of Griffitts, the convention went into committee of the whole on the corporations article. Bowen resumed the chair.

The question was still on section 21, the pending motion being Griffitts's, providing that the legislature may abolish the railroad commission by a majority vote.

Weisenburger moved to amend by requiring a three fifths vote to abolish, and providing that the legislature, by a majority vote, may re-establish such commission, lost.

Turner moved that a two thirds majority shall be required to abolish such commission.

A debate ensued, which was not confined to this particular motion, but ranged all over the field covered by this section twenty one and in fact pretty much all over the field of railroads, their building, running, management, corruptions, oppressions, and remedies therefor.

After awhile Griffitts suggested, and the chair promptly sustained him, that all there was before the house was a question of two thirds or a majority, and the debate thereafter was more closely confined to the motion, and soon afterwards the motion was lost by yeas 20, nays 44.

Dyer moved to compromise by saying three fifths, and after a discussion of whether that had been voted for already, the chair ruled it in, put the question and it was lost.

Griffitts's original motion thus came to the surface again, and there was a fresh start of debate between Turner (time extended), Cosgrove and Sharpstein, and then the motion was lost.

Buchanan offered his substitute printed several days ago, providing an elaborate scheme of an appointive commission, following the Wisconsin statute on this subject, and argued in favor of it for his full time, which was extended by vote, but he declined to avail himself of the extension, as he said he did not want to talk to empty chairs.

His substitute failed by ayes 13, noes 50.

Power moved to amend by making the commission appointive by the governor, instead of elective, and argued briefly in favor of that method, lost.

Griffitts offered an amendment making the terms of the commissioners two years, and other changes, lost.

Turner moved that this section be passed temporarily and be reported to the convention and recommitted to the committee on corporations, to reframe it in such manner that the legislature shall elect such commissioners.

After a debate the motion failed—yeas 19, nays 40.

Minor then offered a substitute, providing simply that a railroad commission shall be established and its powers defined by the legislature, lost, yeas 24, nays 33.

Turner moved to amend so that a commission of three shall be elected by the legislature in joint committee, lost, yeas 18, nays not counted.

Weir offered a substitute for section 21, directing the legislature to pass laws to establish rates and prevent abuses, being in substance section 22 as printed, but points of order were raised, and on taking the sense of the committee it was not received.

Turner moved to amend so that the charges as fixed by the commission "shall be reasonable," carried—ayes 32, noes 27.

Weisenburger offered an amendment—"subject to such rules and regulations as may be provided by law" and "reasonable maximum rates," for the general authority to fix rates, etc, which section 21 confers on the commission, lost.

The main question was finally arrived at on section 21 and the section failed by ayes 25, noes [illegible].

The section as recommended by the minority was rejected last week, and so section 21 like Mahomet's coffin is in the air and the convention [illegible] to what it likes with it.

Section 22 was taken up.

OTHER SECTIONS ADOPTED.

A Number of Them Amended by the Committee of the Whole

Sec 22.—The legislature shall have power to pass laws establishing reasonable maximum rates of charges for transportation of passengers and freight and to correct abuses, and to prevent discrimination and extortion in the rates of freight and passenger traffic on the different railroads and other common carriers in the state, and shall enforce such laws by adequate penalties.

On motion of Griffitts, "have power to" were stricken out.

Sullivan, Tacoma, moved to add to the section, so that the legislature may establish railroad commission and define its powers and duties. Griffitts moved to change "may" to "shall." The amendment debated by Griffitts, Stiles, Dunbar, Kinnear, Dyer and P C Sullivan and lost—ayes 21, noes 27.

Stiles moved to so amend as to cover all common carriers by making it read "railroad and transportation commission," carried—ayes 32, nays 15.

Sullivan's motion as so amended was adopted by ayes 40, nays 11.

Weisenburger moved to strike out section 22, and argued on his motion.

Hoyt and Kinnear opposed it and Turner favored it, lost—ayes 9, nays not counted.

The section was adopted.

Sec 23.—Any association or corporation or the lessees or managers thereof organized for the purpose, or any individual, shall have the right to construct and maintain lines of telegraph and telephone within this state and to connect the same with other lines of the same character, and all of such companies are hereby declared to be common carriers. The legislature shall, by general law of uniform operation, provide reasonable regulations to give full effect to this section.

Sharpstein moved to insert the words "and exercise the right of eminent domain" for the benefit of telegraph and telephone companies, so that they could not be excluded by railroads.

Hoyt and Griffitts opposed it and Sharpstein withdrew.

Griffitts moved an amendment providing in full terms that no railroad shall give exclusive privileges to any one telegraph or telephone company.

Hoyt favored equal terms, but only upon compensation.

Stiles moved to recommit to the corporations committee to reframe this section, so as to properly include this idea.

Kinnear, chairman, objected. Lost, yeas 22, nays 28.

Turner thought Griffitts' amendment could not be made to apply to existing railroad corporations. The convention seemed to think it could by voting to adopt the amendment.

The section was then passed temporarily to allow time for further amendments.

Sec 24.—Monopolies and trusts are contrary to the best interests of free governments and shall never be allowed in this state, and no incorporated company, co-partnership or association of persons in this state shall directly or indirectly combine or make any contract with any other incorporated company, foreign or domestic, through their stockholders or the trustees or assignees of such stockholders, or with any copartnership or association of persons or in any manner whatever, for the purpose of fixing the price or regulating the production or transportation of any product or commodity. The legislature shall pass laws for the enforcement of this section by adequate penalties and in the case of incorporated companies if necessary for that purpose may declare a forfeiture of their property and franchises.

Bowen moved to strike out "property and," [illegible] end of the section adopted.

Stiles offered a substitute declaring contracts in the nature of trusts or monopolies, which were, he said, not known to law or dictionaries, void, and prohibiting the courts in the state from enforcing any such contracts made outside of the state, lost, yeas 26, nays 2[illegible].

Turner moved to so amend that "diminishing the production of any product or commodity should be the offense declared against, carried unanimously.

[illegible] was adopted.

[illegible] moved to rise and report progress, lost.

Section 23 was again taken up and Turner [illegible] words as will provide that railroad corporations shall, under [illegible] payment of just compensation, allow telegraph and telephone companies to [illegible] on their right of way [illegible]. He also moved to strike out the [illegible] connect [illegible] and de[illegible] [illegible] Dunbar, Crowley and E H Sullivan.

Crowley moved [illegible] shall receive and transmit each [illegible] without any discrimination [illegible] ayes [illegible] noes 11.

Crowley moved to strike out "and connect the same with other lines of the same character," carried.

The section was adopted as amended.

Moore moved an additional section declaring it unlawful for corporations to require employes to release liability for injuries, etc., as a condition of employment.

Turner moved that the committee rise and report progress.

Moore withdrew his section to present in convention.

Dunbar moved to rise and recommend the article, so voted.

The president resumed the chair, and Bowen reported.

Griffitts moved a recess till 8 o'clock.

Sohns moved to adjourn.

Moore demanded the yeas and nays, lost—yeas 27, nays 32.

Shoudy moved to substitute 8 A M to-morrow for 8 P M to night, carried—yeas 29, nays 16.

The convention then at 6 30 adjourned (yeas 29, nays 14) to 8 A. M Tuesday.

THE MONTANA CONVENTION.

The Article on Legislative Department Adopted

HELENA, Mont, Aug 5.—The convention met at 4 P M. They were considerably rattled after so long a recess, and were compelled to make frequent reference to the journal to decide questions.

The propositions that had been acted upon in the convention were thought to have been only before the committee of the whole and many others came loaded, expecting to open up their batteries upon them and annihilate them with one charge. Such men could only be satisfied of their error by quotations from the minutes of the last meeting.

The proceedings of to-day were almost a repetition of Saturday's wrangle. There were votes cast and remarks made which some time will be regretted, and the worst of it is that the spirit which has manifested itself is likely to lead on to other things still worse, until instead of a constitution framed to protect all persons and interests alike and to prevent combinations and conflicts of interests, Montana is likely to have presented an instrument in which the seeds of perpetual strife and division will be implanted.

Ex-Governor Carpenter delivered his first speech since the opening of the convention. The debate was waxing warm over the number of the legislative assembly required to call a convention to reconstruct or amend the constitution of the state of Montana. Some claimed that a majority of each body was a sufficient requisite to call such a body together, while others declared that a two thirds vote was right. Carpenter favored the latter. He said that he had always favored popular representation and always voted according to his strong convictions. He believed it right to have two bodies of the legislature so that one could act as a check upon the other. This convention, he claimed, would have framed a worthier constitution had it been separated into two bodies, allowing one to reconstruct the work of the other. Carpenter affirmed that as a matter of principle he never voted for a bad measure to secure the vote of a member on what he considered a good one.

This incited Whitehill, who denounced in forcible terms the implication that any member would vote contrary to his convictions or would be guilty of forming an unholy combination.

The article on legislative departments, vesting the legislative power in a senate and house of representatives, which shall be designated "The Legislative Assembly of the State of Montana," was adopted. There are forty four sections. The members, for a wonder, did not discuss it. The sixteen senators and fifty five representatives clause is clinched.

Section 9, that no railroad or other transportation companies shall grant free passes or tickets at a discount to members of the legislature, judiciary or state and county boards of equalization, was stricken out.

A proposition recommended by the financial committee, allowing cities to incur debts for water supplies, was passed.

The article on miscellaneous subjects came up for final consideration. Another attempt was made to defeat the senatorial representation by counties but the effort was soon abandoned.

THE IDAHO CONVENTION

A Vote Against Holding An Election This Fall.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Aug 5.—This morning an apportionment of the legislative districts was under consideration in the constitutional convention. The project to give each county one senator was revived the third time, in a prolonged contest. The friends of the measure carried the house three times, but on the final vote Chaney of Latah changed sides and the project was tabled. Ayes thirty, nays twenty nine.

The report of the committee on apportionment was then adopted with trifling changes. The apportionment is considered to be, in a moderate way in the interest of the republican party, but the vote throughout Idaho fluctuates too much to predict results under this districting.

At the afternoon session the convention finally fixed the pay of employes. It was announced that local bankers would buy convention certificates of all expenses at 25 per cent. discount.

The article on schedule and ordinance was taken up. The first six sections, being alike in both reports, were adopted.

On the reading of the section providing for the election Sweet, of Latah county, argued for electing full state, judicial and legislative officers in November next. This argument required an hour in delivery, and was thoroughly well prepared and effective. The leading thought was that the vote would be too light to show our voting strength without the excitement of a contest for official position; further that congress will not admit Idaho if its position as a republican state is doubtful.

Reid of Nez Perces county, replied. He cited first, the various enabling acts introduced in congress, all of which provided that Idaho's first election be held in the fall of 1890 and this on the ground that Idaho had not yet attained the requisite population and wealth; second, the proclamations issued by Governors Stevenson and Shoup both limited the duty of this convention to formulating and submitting a constitution. With political complexion left out of the question the state will go in on its merits. Reid claimed that we have 118,000 population, much greater than a majority of the new states so far admitted. He detailed at length the wealth, variety and value of the productions, and eulogized the high character of the constitution this body has adopted.

Heyburn of Shoshone county argued that this convention was called not to prepare a constitution, but to form a state. The important question is not what the people of Idaho will do, but what congress will do. If Idaho come up fully equipped for statehood we will be admitted. If not, Wyoming will outstrip us. The political standpoint will largely govern congress and the election for state officers will assure congress what is Idaho's political standing.

The debate was continued by Batton and Beatty of Alturas and Mayhew of Shoshone county.

Mr Parker of Idaho county, urged that no issue should cloud the question of adoption of the constitution. He thought the people should realize the exclusions of civil rights engrafted in this document.

By a vote of 38 to 11 the convention determined to hold no election for state officers this fall.

The convention then took a recess to 8 o clock, to perfect organization.

THE BISMARCK CONVENTION

A Disagreeable Sensation During the Afternoon Session

BISMARCK, Dak, Aug 5.—The Saturday night session of the constitutional convention was passed in the discussion of the proposition giving the legislature power to fix passenger and freight rates and to regulate the charges on sleeping cars, express, telephone and telegraph companies. The committee of the whole adopted the proposition. Before the convention finally adopts the article another strong effort will be made to amend it.

This afternoon the convention was addressed by Senator Stewart, of Nevada, who at the close of his remarks on irrigation took occasion to get in his hot licks on the silver question.

He was followed by Senator Reagan, of Texas, and Major Powell, of the United States geological survey.

An unpleasant sensation was occasioned by Delegate Johnson, of Nelson county. During the remarks of Senators Reagan and Stewart on the silver question they referred to the war debt. Johnson arose at the close of Reagan's speech and said that if he had read history aright the senator from Texas was in Jeff Davis's cabinet when the war debt was being made.

At this point Delegate Purcell arose to inquire whether or not Johnson intended to insult Senator Reagan.

Immediately following this query, Matthews, of Grand Forks, moved to adjourn, which motion prevailed by a unanimous vote, and the convention adjourned while Johnson was still on his feet.

THE SIOUX FALLS CONVENTION.

The Final Session Held Yesterday The Members Sign the Constitution

SIOUX FALLS, D T, Aug 5.—The South Dakota convention met at 10 o clock to-day for the last session. The only work done was the auditing of the expenses of the convention and the signing of the constitution. Seventy two of the seventy five members were present and affixed their signatures to the document. The work of the convention meets with universal approval.

THE BLACK DIAMOND.

The State Department Disavows All Responsibility.

NOBODY HAS ANY PARTICULARS

How the Affair is Regarded in Canada—Views of the United States Consul at Victoria—Press Comment.

WASHINGTON, Aug 5.—Acting Secretary Wharton was asked this morning if the state department had anything to say in regard to the escape of the British bark Black Diamond. "The department," Wharton said, "has not been advised of the seizure of the Black Diamond or any other vessel. It has no news on the subject, and therefore has no statement to make in regard to its future action in the matter."

"Have you seen the statement that it was the desire to let the Black Diamond escape after the capture, and therefore but one man was put aboard her from the Rush?"

"No," said Wharton, "I have not seen that statement, and have no means of knowing that it is true. This whole matter of the seizure of these vessels, so far as it has gone, is under the control and direction of the treasury department. If there is any blame attached to these seizures, it must be laid at the door of congress. It passed a law instructing the president to issue a proclamation extending to the water of Behring sea the same protection to seals and other fur bearing animals as is accorded the fur bearing inhabitants of Alaska and the waters thereof by the general act of fisheries, and the law is simply being enforced, and that is what we are here for, to carry out the laws that congress enacts. So far this question has not become an international one. The state department has not been informed officially of any sort of proceeding and there one has nothing to act upon."

THOUGHT TO BE A GENUINE SEIZURE

OTTAWA, Ont, Aug 5.—The government has not yet received any report regarding the escape of the Black Diamond. It is likely that no official cognizance of the affair will be taken. The seizure is regarded in official circles as a genuine one. The escape of the schooner is not regarded as likely to complicate matters. The officials here express themselves as ignorant of the alleged departure of British war vessels for Behring sea.

SECRETARY WINDOM UNCOMMUNICATIVE

WASHINGTON, Aug 5.—Secretary Windom said this afternoon that in the absence of official information concerning the escape of the British sealer Black Diamond he did not care to discuss the matter.

OPINION OF OUR CONSUL.

The Whole Sealing Fleet Is Not Worth Fighting For.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 5.—Referring to the recent seizure of the Black Diamond in Behring sea, Robert J Stearns, United States consul at Victoria, who is now in this city, says: "Owners of Victoria sealers, who are the only persons directly interested, are naturally exercised about this matter, but outside of them I do not think the people north of us are greatly alarmed or excited over this affair. The action of our government is entirely in harmony with the act of 1870 and the later act of 1889, which, as all know, is a declaratory act and right in the line of previous acts. I do not see but what our government has acted perfectly right in the matter. The only danger that may arise from all this affair may be a skirmish with fatal results between the crews of sealers and the United States revenue cutters. The Victoria sealers are as a rule manned by Indian hunters, and they are well equipped with guns and ammunition. They are brave, fierce and warlike. They are personally interested in this affair, as they share in the catch of the sealers and for this reason might bring about a conflict with the men on the revenue cutters. I do not think that any of the owners of the sealing vessels contemplated or do now contemplate any armed resistance to the enforcement by the revenue cutter Rush of the acts of our government. I do not think the total money value of the sealers and their equipment sent out from Victoria amounts to over $250,000, which is a trifling sum for two great nations to quarrel over."

AMERICAN PRESS COMMENT

NEW YORK, Aug 5.—The Mail and Express editorially says: "The commander of the revenue cutter Richard Rush is acting under very explicit instructions. The fact that he only detailed a single seaman for duty on the Black Diamond shows that the object of our government is solely to put an end to the business of destroying our seal fisheries. For this end the seizure of the Black Diamond and the confiscation of her cargo is sufficient. England desires the success of our government in this business."

The Post says in an editorial: "The arrival of the Black Diamond at Victoria in charge of her own officers and crew shows pretty conclusively that the commander of the Rush did not intend bringing her into an American port for adjudication. It is a very queer proceeding from every point of view."

HOW THE CANADIANS VIEW IT

TORONTO, Aug 5.—The Globe says: "The Black Diamond adventure reads like a joke. It is a pity the joke was not completed as probably it would have been had Captain Thomas found a British man of war at Ounalaska to put a fine finish on the farce. Washington should claim damages because the Black Diamond carried John Hawkins, a representative of the Washington authority into Victoria. Probably even Uncle Sam's cheek is not colossal enough to enable him to make a demand for the surrender of the escaped vessel. Of course the Diamond should instantly seek satisfaction for the piratical conduct of the Rush."

A COMPROMISE PREDICTED

Tripartite Control of the Waters of Behring Sea

WASHINGTON, Aug 5.—Belief here is quite general that the negotiations for the settlement of the Behring sea controversy will be a tripartite arrangement instead of a simple conference between England and the United States. The fact that the sea in question is bounded on the west by Russian territory brings the Muscovite government into the matter and will result in all probability in an arrangement between the United States, Russia and England for joint control of the sealing grounds.

It seems to be a belief in well informed diplomatic circles that the state department, anticipating controversy over the right to control Behring sea, has already communicated with these nations, and that by the time Sir Julian Pauncefote returns to Washington arrangements will be perfected for a meeting of the three most interested governments in which an agreement will be suggested for a division of the responsibility of protecting the breeding grounds of the seals. It is well understood that England is as much interested as the United States in preventing the [illegible] from indiscriminately slaughtering the [illegible] and while Russia [illegible] Northwest [illegible] compared with those of [illegible] governments she will be ready [illegible] with both for the [illegible].

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

[illegible] Against the Seizure of the Black Diamond

LONDON, Aug 5.—The Times holds that there [illegible] justification to the high handed [illegible] of the [illegible] Black Diamond.

It says: "No [illegible] of congress can [illegible] territorial waters of America without the consent of England, [illegible] seizures contrary to international law and comity."

In conclusion it says: "The nation's good sense and the love of justice of the American people can be relied on to assist in the settlement of a question that ought never to have been raised."

OUR NORTHERN RIVAL.

A line that can carry a cargo of tea and silk from Yokohama to New York in twenty-one days is one to be proud of or afraid of, according to our point of view. When that line is the Canadian Pacific it is time for San Francisco to be thinking. Freight and passengers from Asia the Canadian Pacific holds a commanding position. It owns 18 steamers on the Pacific and a through all-rail route from ocean to ocean and it is about to have a fleet of ocean racers on the Atlantic. It will soon be able to load freight in Yokohama and unload it in Liverpool without asking any other company for the use of a ship a car or a mile of track. A cargo of tea sent from Japan to England by way of San Francisco and New York must go over at least five different lines, and all these must agree upon percentages and connections. A rival route under a single control would have an immense advantage even if it operated entirely with its own money. When it is backed by the resources of a government it becomes a formidable.—[Daily S F Examiner, July 31.]

What rival to San Francisco is here referred to? Why, Vancouver, B. C., of course, the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railroad. I have recently purchased 400 lots within the city limits of this future great city. These lots lie high, sightly and level within one mile of business center and I will sell a limited number of these as low as $80 each, $10 cash and $5 per month without interest. YELLOW VS. RED FIR.

PORTLAND, Or, Feb 9

To the Editor of Engineering News:—In a recent number of the [illegible] Railway Review a correspondent [illegible] the course of an article on Wood's [illegible] as to the durability of wood [illegible] the [illegible] railway says in a paper on the subject that the Northwestern [illegible] forty years and be perfectly safe.

I am a manufacturer of timber at present and built that portion of the Northern Pacific railway between Portland and Puget sound. On this 130 miles of road there is a very large proportion of trestle and Howe truss bridges. The first part of this road was built in 18[illegible]. Within [illegible] years afterwards [illegible] a great many of the timbers in the Howe truss bridges had decayed and on examination about four [illegible] they were red fir. I have since noticed that the red fir, such as in a bridge, will not last more than one half as long as the yellow fir.

A great many Eastern roads are getting from Oregon and Washington [illegible] ties and bridge timbers and they indiscriminately buy both red and yellow fir in fact they make no distinction between these two kinds of timber.

In [illegible] time there will be complaints that our fir timber on the Pacific coast is worthless because of their failing to buy the yellow instead of the red fir. The latter will last as cross ties at least eight or nine years, or as great a length of time as the best white oak, whereas the former will not last more than one third that time.

I suggest to the railway companies in buying that before that they be careful to have an expert examine this timber and buy only yellow fir. As their habit is now when they can make a purchase for $2 or $3 a thousand less they are loaded up with the inferior article in a very large proportion.

In this connection I wish to submit the experience of Captain J W White, of the United States revenue marine service. He has superintended the building of all the revenue cutters that have been constructed on the Pacific coast and he informs me that he never in a single instance puts a piece of red fir in the construction of one of the government vessels.

The following is his letter written to me from Oakland, Cal, under the date of February 2, 1889.

The revenue steamer Wolcott was built at this port in 18[illegible] under my superintendence of material obtained at the [illegible] lumber yards but not cut expressly for ship building purposes, nor can I now say whether it came from Oregon or Washington territory. It was, however, carefully, if not entirely, of yellow fir that had been then [illegible] by far the most durable. This vessel was carefully examined and repaired in 1881 under my supervision, the only decayed parts being in the frame of the [illegible] boiler and engines pan and about the [illegible] forward [illegible] had been admitted with no [illegible] to dry out and no ventilation. She [illegible] to the present time is sound [illegible] that she is perfectly sound at this time.

The revenue steamer Corwin was built at Portland, Or, in 1876 under my supervision entirely of yellow fir. She has been in service since that time cruising from San Diego to the Arctic [illegible] was carefully examined by a board [illegible] and [illegible] Cooper, an expert [illegible] [illegible] the only [illegible] the fir [illegible] a good bottom [illegible] [illegible] for a spar or [illegible] [illegible] both [illegible] from leakage and no chance to dry.

The revenue steamer Rush was built in [illegible] Blakeley, Washington territory, in 1880 under my supervision of yellow fir.

Both the Corwin and Rush, when built, if in the merchant service would have been rated [illegible] which is the highest class for thirteen years. The Corwin having received that rating from the inspector [illegible] above referred to her condition [illegible] to the [illegible] rate for five years more without further inspection and I feel assured [illegible] will prove quite as sound when she has reached [illegible]. Time has shown that the Wolcott [illegible] would also have borne a first class rating though as above stated the material of which she was constructed was not cut especially for ship building purposes.

For fence posts or railroad ties select the butts of large yellow fir trees say sixteen feet and up, let them be well dried out before placing them in position. I will venture to say that a large majority of them will be sound at the expiration of fifteen years while the life of the red fir will not be over three years. No disinterested person can say less for the one and more for the other [illegible].

In conclusion I wish to say that the strength of the yellow fir as a bridge timber is not excelled even by the oak of the Eastern states. That has been demonstrated by the experiment made at the Mare Island navy yard in California. For railway ties it is fully as valuable as oak, and will hold a spike much longer. Yours respectfully

THE ELDORADO DITCH

A Brief History of This Expensive Work and the Extensive Lawsuit Connected With It

Yesterday morning Judge Deady of the United States circuit court announced a decision in Gest vs. Packwood et al a somewhat celebrated cause involving the title to certain liens on the Eldorado ditch which has been pending so long in the United States circuit court of this district The original bill in the cause was filed in 1878 on behalf of a citizen of the state of Illinois, since which time by a series of amended bills bills of supplement and of revivor petitions for intervention cross bills motions for receiver cross motions for discharge petitions for allowance of claims against the receiver and the like the cause has been enveloped in a legal mist involving no little research and ingenuity on the part of the court and counsel to put it in a condition for final decree From 1879 to 1887, the cause slept from sheer exhaustion Since the latter date however a spirited legal contest has been waged and pretty much all of the spare time of the court has been taken up in hearing some question involved in Gest vs Packwood

By the decree ordered the ditch will be sold and the proceeds realized applied to the payment of certain liens equitable and conventional found by the decree.

The Eldorado ditch is the longest ditch in Oregon and one of the longest in the United States Its extreme length from the North or Middle Fork of Burnt river in Eastern Oregon to Malheur is about ninety three miles most of which as originally constructed was six feet wide on the bottom and eight feet on top. It has an extension at the foot of the ditch from Malheur to the Fourth of July and Amelia mining camps of fifteen miles making a total length of about 120 miles with distributing ditches on its route, one of six miles to Clark's creek. It heads in the mountains at the head waters of Burnt river, and follows the divide between Burnt river and Willow creek taking its water by water rights acquired to the water of Burnt river, south and north fork, Rock creek, Deer creek, East Camp creek, West Camp creek Bull Run and Coyote creeks, and other small creeks tapped along its route

The mining excitement consequent upon the discovery of gold in Eastern Oregon in 1862, which resulted in the celebrated Auburn ditch enterprise, which swallowed so much Portland capital and died an early death, was the inspiration of the Eldorado ditch, which was located early in 1864 or 1865, and partly constructed as early as 1867 or 1868. At this time the ditch was small, and extended from the old mining town of Eldorado to East Camp creek a distance of only fifty miles. The water supply was inadequate to reach the camp, most of the mining in which was done by "free water," and in 1870 Eastern capital having been interested in the enterprise, the ditch was enlarged and extended to South Fork of Burnt river The enterprise proved expensive however, the company became involved the ditch was sold under execution resold by the purchasers, leased and the rents and profits pledged to certain creditors, and under the various sales and leases the present litigation arose. The ditch has outlived most of the enterprises of its kind, has survived two of the litigants associated with its early history witnessed the election to the congress of the United States, the house and senate, of four persons prominently connected with its history either as litigants or counsel, and except for the timely pushing of the cause to final hearing bid fair to outlive the law itself

The decision in the case must be a great relief to Mr Zera Snow, counsel for the plaintiff who has expended much time on it and whose legal talents have been fully employed in keeping up with the many shifting forms and singularities of the complicated affair but who at last has the satisfaction of securing a decree for his clients.

AT THE THEATERS.

"The Paymaster" a Hit at New Park—"The Moonshiners" a Success at the Musee—Japanese Exhibition

It was certainly a demonstrative and enthusiastic audience which witnessed the reappearance last night at the New Park of Duncan B Harrison in his beautiful military play The Paymaster Since its first production here, some sixteen months ago, the play has been shorn of many crudities long speeches have been cut out and others made short and crisp and the action has been improved in many vital respects Altogether it is a most charming play pure in tone rich in [illegible] brimming over with human nature [illegible] admirably constructed

It is most handsomely set too The Inishvogue [illegible] scene in the second act with the [illegible] walls illuminated for a background and the [illegible] below them and the wood scene in the fourth act, with a rustic bridge spanning [illegible] of real water running into the river [illegible] veritable gems of scenic art

The play was admirably acted throughout Mr Duncan B Harrison who is author as well as actor played the role of The Paymaster with that forceful earnestness which is so characteristic of the man. His scenes with his mother and sister and sweetheart were given with a quiet intensity which earned him the cordial sympathy of the audience His escape from prison by leaping into the river, as well as his rescue of Ethel by diving into the river after she is thrown in by his enemy were applauded to the echo and gained a curtain call.

Theodore Hamilton as Colonel [illegible] lacks somewhat in animation though as a rule he is a good actor

Thomas A Wise made a capital Captain Harding and doubled Sergeant Fitzgerald quite cleverly

J F Ward as Larry O Brien was most effective His rich Irish brogue and droll humor completely took the house Nell O Brien as Sergeant Upton was also good

Miss Beatrice Lieb as Ethel Maley gave a natural and womanly delineation of the part though her voice appeared rather weak The wonder is however that jumping in the water as she does every night she can talk at all Ethel Douglas, as Mrs Helen O Connor the [illegible] the part does not look it She is not made up sufficiently elderly Ruth Hamilton makes a very sweet and pleasing Nellie O Connor while Annie Alliston does full justice to Mrs [illegible] The remainder of the cast is fully up to the demands

The Paymaster again to-night

CORDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER —Standing room only was again the case at this house last night on the occasion of the first performance of "The Moonshiners" and from the frequent manifestations of applause there can be no doubt of the success of the piece For a first night's performance it went remarkably well and moved along without any apparent hitches

Miss Essie Tittel gave ample proof of her painstaking care and histrionic talent in the role of Sincerity Weeks, the waif She threw into the part all the natural abandon of the untutored mountain girl and crept right into the affections of the audience for her sterling worth from the start The wing dance of herself and little Minnie was uproariously applauded and had to be repeated

George R Caine as the Irascible Colonel Trafton was exceedingly good He is always equal to whatever role he undertakes and he threw all his [illegible] to this portrayal with the result that it stood out as a very important factor in the success of the play

Mr Sam Morris as Jack Weeks was excellent [illegible] Mr [illegible] as Samantha Weeks and Jennie Darragh as Nonda

The Musee had a tremendous [illegible] Mlle [illegible] and her [illegible] performing pigs [illegible]

The Moonshiners again to-night

A JAPANESE EXHIBITION —Next Sunday there is to be a novel outdoor exhibition at the City View Park. It consists of a sort of aerial display which is much in vogue at the Eastern seaside and other summer resorts. They are said to be very interesting, and will doubtless draw a large crowd as open air attractions of a novel character are almost [illegible] after

CONCERNING CABLE ROADS

Some Opinions Expressed Regarding This Subject—Certain Recommendations

Some of the street railway companies in this city recently applied to the council and were granted permission to change the motive power on their lines The permission, including the right to tear up streets, lay cables erect poles and string wires or do whatever else was necessary for this purpose was at once granted but so far neither of the companies has been able to decide as to what kind of motor power it wishes to use

It may be some satisfaction to the public to know that the street railway companies in the great city of New York are in the same fix

A meeting of the railroad commissioners of that city was held a few days since to listen to objections to the introduction of the cable traction on Third avenue It was urged that the putting down of a cable road would interfere greatly with the numerous gas and water pipes in that street which would have to be changed at considerable expense Colonel W H Paine was called to testify in regard to cable roads and gave his opinion in regard to different kinds of motive power as follows

He said that for the last two years he had been studying the various motors and motive powers employed for transportation and he believed the cable to be a success When asked by Commissioner Rogers as to the storage battery system Mr Paine said that he had always hoped for its success as the advantage of controlling the power in the car itself was evident The objection to it was the increased weight of the cars When a great many cars were used, as on Third avenue he believed the cable system the more advisable Electric systems using an overhead wire he also deemed successful The cost of maintenance as between a cable and storage battery road he believed would be in favor of the cable road

The authorities have also been in correspondence with the street railway companies in regard to repairing certain streets The companies were asked if they contemplated any change in their motive powers and what such changes would be and to what extent such changes would interfere with the improvement of the streets through which the roads run

Of the twenty-one railway companies five replied that they proposed as Cornelius Vanderbilt, the president of the New York & Harlem Railroad Company said "to keep pace with the improvements which are being made in motive power" Others expressed a desire to experiment with the various improvements in motive power now pressing for recognition and would adopt something furnishing better facilities to the public than the present.

[illegible] information could be obtained [illegible] in the system of streets not likely to be intruded upon by rail roads

The street committee of this city may be interested [illegible] that [illegible] the material to [illegible] recommended that it should be granite [illegible] concrete foundation in streets where there is heavy traffic, granite blocks on a sand [illegible] in minor business streets or streets partly residential [illegible] and asphalt on a concrete foundation or the old trap block pavement where that is fit for use in purely residential streets where quietness is the great desideratum As to other kinds of pavement proposed to his department he suggested that their projectors might be permitted to experiment with them at their own expense on blocks here and there

FOOT SQUARE AND SQUARE FOOT

GRANTS Wasco Co, Or, July 30

Editor OREGONIAN—Dear Sir They have been a dispute as to whether they was a difference between a square foot & a foot square I clame that they are not but I clame that they are a difference after you have the [illegible] arithmetic tells what a square foot is but it does not tell what a foot square is [illegible] please answer this question by letter & give a full rule as I expect to [illegible] money at Stake you will find Stamps in letter Chas S Lyle Grants Oregon

It is believed the query contained in the above letter was the one asked by the old original Sphinx but it is evident the human headed beast did not live long enough to devour all who did not know It really would be wrong on the part of THE OREGONIAN to tell Mr Lyle for thus he would have a dead sure cinch on all his friends and would make a pile of money The two stamps enclosed as above noted is not a fair division of the spoil in this case

SPOKANE'S TERRIBLE FIRE.

The Insurance Held In This City Amounts to Nearly $600,000.

Fire Commissioner Trevett and Chief Morgan Say Portland Should Have Two More Engines and a Good Fire Boat

The disastrous extent of the Spokane Falls fire was not known in Portland until THE OREGONIAN made its appearance yesterday

Sunday night the telegraph brought the news that a fire was raging and one dispatch said the town was doomed Then all the wires went down, and those that had not been prostrated by the conflagration were felled by forest fires.

Definite news of the full extent of the fire was not received until near 2 30 yesterday morning and the Western Union company had to work hard to get even the most meager details When the readers of the OREGONIAN consulted their papers the first thing that met their gaze was "Spokane in Ashes" Then everybody asked "What town will be the next to go?" About that time word came that Pendleton was burning but subsequent reports proved that the fire there was nowhere near so bad as was thought

All day there was a general demand for the latest news from Spokane Falls but as the wires were not working with their usual facility but little news was received Those who had business interests or relatives or friends in the stricken city were anxious to learn all that could be learned Staver & Walker received a telegram in the evening informing them that they had suffered loss They carried a stock of machinery and vehicles worth from $40 000 to $50 000, which was fully insured

INSURANCE HELD IN PORTLAND

With the insurance men it was a matter of dollars and cents [illegible] how much was what they wanted to know Clerks were busy all day figuring out the aggregate amount of risk [illegible] The total amount held by companies which report to Portland amounts to $[illegible] The largest amount $[illegible] 000 is held by Henry Hewitt & Co's agency which comprises the following companies Hartford of Hartford Commercial of California Firemen's Fund North British and Mercantile German American London and Lancashire and the [illegible] Norwich Union and Lancashire Following is the amount by companies

A number of companies whose Spokane Falls agents do not report to Portland but to San Francisco or the home office are interested to the extent of about $[illegible]

PORTLAND NEEDS MORE FIRE APPARATUS

Perhaps no one in Portland took a more active interest in the fires than Fire Chief Morgan He and the commissioners realize full well that Portland has outgrown her small but efficient fire department The chief is confident that the department is able to cope with any emergency in the fire line that may arise, but then he says "The way to avert a big fire is to be prepared for it"

"It is a dollar well spent that goes to increase the efficiency of a fire department" he said yesterday "Portland should have two more fire companies—one for the extreme northern end of town and the other for the southern district—and a good fire boat

"Portland undoubtedly needs more apparatus" said President Trevett of the fire board "The people realize this as well as the commissioners but the great difficulty is that our annual expenditures are limited by the charter to the amount raised by a 1½ mill tax and we are unable because of scarcity of funds to make the improvements that the department would desire to make We need two companies and a fire boat to protect the river front

WILL THE MERCHANTS SUBSCRIBE THE MONEY?

"It is to be regretted that the charter limits the expenditures of the fire board so that there is no money available to make the department more efficient" said a merchant yesterday "However where there is a will there is a way so the saying goes and I think that in view of the disastrous fires [illegible] merchants of Portland would willingly contribute $50 000 to buy new apparatus And why should they? If Portland should have a fire that would sweep a district as large as that burned in Seattle say from [illegible] street to [illegible] street and from Third street to Willamette river [illegible] the loss from $[illegible] 000 to $[illegible] 000 000 Taking this view of the case I see no reason why the merchants should not contribute $50 000 to make the department as strong as possible

FIRES OR FATALITY

The disastrous fires at Seattle Ellensburgh [illegible] and Spokane Falls have taken all the profits out of the insurance business in the North west this year and have set the insurance men to thinking what can be the cause of so many conflagrations The theory of many is that the towns have been systematically fired by an organized gang of firebugs Still many believe that the fires resulted from what might be said to be natural causes not being of incendiary origin and that they assume their disastrous proportions through the lack of efficient fire apparatus or through the inability of the firemen to cope with them

A GENEROUS PROPOSITION

An Offer to Donate One Half of the Proceeds to Spokane Sufferers.

PORTLAND O Aug 5

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In view of the terrible calamity that has befallen Spokane Falls, and believing it to be the duty of every man woman and child to contribute in some manner to ameliorate their sufferings, Manager J F Howe of the New Park theater, Mr Duncan B Harrison and myself desire to make the following proposition

We will place on sale with the mayor of your city 5000 tickets to be sold at $1 each said tickets to be exchanged at the box office of the theater for reserved seats without extra charge and to be honored for any performance during the current week and we will devote one half of the proceeds of these tickets to the relief of the Spokane sufferers I would further suggest to increase the sale of these tickets that the Mayor place them in the hands of the police fire department, Board of Trade and in fact at such public places as Hoyt's music store Gunst's cigar store etc Where no doubt, the tickets would meet with a ready sale

As your people have been called on very often of late to help Johnstown Ellensburg and Seattle, it seems to me that this proposition will meet with general favor as they will not only be furthering a worthy object but will also be witnessing a very pleasing entertainment at no increase of the regular prices

The World was ready for Pearline—received it with smiling face—outstretched arms and in a few years, has made the very name Pearline to mean perfect cleanliness, with ease, comfort and safety

It's to your interest and ours, to have you try it (we share the benefit with you) On coarse articles or fine, on anything washable Delightful in the bath Millions use Pearline because it helps them—not us. It helps us most to make an article that helps woman.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline" IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. 155 Pearline is manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York

CAUTION

W L DOUGLAS' name and the price are stamped on the bottom of all shoes advertised by him before leaving his factory; this protects the wearer against high prices and inferior goods.
